ELECTION DAY

★★ NOVEMBER 5, 1991 ★★

OUR 77TH YEAR NO. 44

October 31, 1991

A driving force

THIS YOUNG lady's umbrella represents a rare sight in Carmel, never mind her turn-of-the-century Halloween costume at All Saints' School's bazaar. Last weekend the peninsula received its first good drenching, as a wet Alaskan storm swept into the area, leaving behind 1.25 inches of rainfall. The season total now stands at 1.61 inches, opposed to only .33 at this time last year. (Susan Beck photo.)

Lack of affordable housing hits local hospitality workers hard

By JOHN DETRO

THE MOST effective general makes sure that every footsoldier's basic needs get met. Because the Monterey Peninsula hospitality industry hasn't expressed the same sort of concern about worker housing, major hotels "must practice crisis management on a daily basis."

And if the situation doesn't improve? "The industry could face constant high turnover of unqualified personnel to its own and serious detriment. This problem's getting worse. More and more people — cooks, front desk, housekeeping — are moving off the peninsula. They simply can't afford to live here. So they're going farther and farther away each year."

Touristwise, the peninsula "rests on its laurels. We're not in a proactive program to attract visitors. There's tough competition from other vacation destinations. If visitors stop coming here, that means less work for our people, less money to cities through the hotel occupancy tax, fewer services for permanent residents."

These hardball views were expressed by Leonard O'Neill, chief executive officer for the 2,500-member Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union Local 483 (covering Monterey and Santa Cruz counties).

O'Neill was asked at the start of an exclusive interview to spell out how his constituency was feeling the economic downturn. He verbalized not only problems, but possible solutions — such as maybe using abandoned Fort Ord dwellings to house hospitality employees. And he voiced support of the new, privately-funded Monterey County Travel and Tourism Bureau.

O'Neill, 40-year-old Pacific Grove resident and family man, was thoughtful throughout the luncheon session. Each question drew clear and measured responses. Like so:

• "Everyone you ask, it's the same. Nobody (within his area of influence) feels that they're making enough money in relation to the cost of living around here. A lot of my people have two jobs — one fulltime and another parttime. Employers generally accept that people are working elsewhere out of necessity. This's acknowledged as a way of life within the industry. People simply can't afford peninsula housing. As a result, major hotels must practice crisis management on a daily basis. The old argument — 'that's what you give in return for living on the beautiful Monterey Peninsula' — doesn't

Current city council overturning planning decisions at higher rate

By DAVID LELAND

AT ITS current rate of overturning Planning Commission actions, the Carmel City Council will far surpass any previous councils in siding with appellants.

That was revealed by an in-house planning department survey that studied the rate of current council appeal decisions and compared them to those of previous councils.

Since April of 1991, 50 percent, or 11 of the 22 appeals heard by the council have gone against the planning commission, according to the study, composed by Planning Director Diane White.

"To me it's a systems issue," said City Administrator Doug Schmitz, who downplayed any political implications that could be drawn from the data. "How do we get the system to work better?"

A breakdown of the of the 22 appeals considered by the council since April is as follows:

- Four commercial sign appeals were overturned.
- Two of seven residential sign appeals overturned.
- Of the 10 land use appeals, five were overturned
- One appeal was remanded back to the planning commission.

Since 1990, the council has heard 45 appeals of planning commission decisions. Of those the council ruled in favor of the commission 25 times and the appellant 19, indicating a 55 percent support of the planning commission.

"At the 1990-to-date rate, the council will consider approximately 60 appeals of planning commission decisions," Schmitz said.

Conversely, previous councils compiled the following appeals rate:

- For Mayor Charlotte Townsend's administration (1984-86) 38 appeals were heard, 10 were overturned and 28 were upheld, indicating a 74 percent support rate for the planning commission.

- Mayor Clint Eastwood's regime (1986-88) heard 26 appeals, overturned 11 and upheld 12, or a 46 percent support of the planning commission.

- During Mayor Jean Grace's first term (1988-90), 42 appeals were heard, with 11 being overturned and 31 upheld, or a 74 percent support rate of the planning commission.

Schmitz, in a memo to councilmembers suggests that, perhaps, the planning commission and council are interpreting the city's general plan differently.

The essence of the planning commission job is to compare incoming applications to city law. The council, however, has the liberty to remand changes in the general law back to the planning commission.

"It seems to me that if the facts represent an inordinate number of appeals being granted, then the council may want to consider making changes to the policies and ordinances that the planning commission is trying to uphold," said Carla Ramsey, planning commission chairperson.

chairperson.

Ramsey said she anticipates a meeting between members of the commission, council and city staff during the coming days to explore the trend.

And while Schmitz is not alarmed, he does believe that the realities of the situation should be explored.

"I believe successful appeals beget additional appeals," he said. "As the council overturns the commission, individuals may begin to view the planning commission not as a body which has final authority subject to appeal, but merely as a body to pass through to get to the city council."

Schmitz suggests an alternative appeals for smaller issues such as signs and fence appeals, which could be decided by a hearing officer.

Supports the Ranch

Dear Editor:

As a long time resident of Carmel since 1962, and a long time guest of the Mission Ranch, we hope to have the Ranch reserved as it always has been, plus any improvements made by Mr. Eastwood. We trust his judgment, both as former mayor and long time acquaintance.

The trail idea is repugnant—too many people marching through the Ranch. It would certainly spoil the peaceful atmosphere and disturb the residents in that area who have worked hard to maintain the serenity.

Mr. Tate is quite just in his effort to maintain the equilibrium.

The residents of Carmel along with myself should be quite proud of our city by the sea.

Supports Warren

Dear Editor:

As a longtime resident of the Monterey Peninsula and with children in each of the Tulare, Carmel Middle and Carmel High Schools, I have vested interest in seeing that our young people receive the best possible education that the Carmel Unified School District can provide.

Jamie Warren has been a friend, business associate and neighbor for over five years. Like me, he also has young children in the Carmel District and is concerned enough about the future of education to run for the Board.

He is a businessman who has the time, energy and desire to share the responsibility of guiding our school system and is a strong believer in creating public/private partnerships as sources of alternate financing.

Please join me in electing Jamie Warren to the Board of the Carmel Unified School District on November 5th.

Sierra Club recommends...

Dear Editor:

The Executive Committee of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club has endorsed Fran Farina, Dick Heuer and Ken Long for seats on the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board. The Chapter also voted to support Measure A in Pacific Grove.

The endorsement of Farina, Heuer and Long was based upon their responses to a questionnaire; their positions in past elections, as elected officials or civic leaders; knowledge of water issues; experience, environmental sensitivity in the past; and electability.

All three candidates support a dam on the Carmel River, which will improve the river's health and fisheries, and a desalination plant to mitigate the overdrafting of the water system. They all agree, however, that possibly as more information on the impacts of a desalination plant becomes available, it might be necessary to rethink the situation. Heuer and Long both support a significant reserve but believe there is not yet enough information to say how many acre feet it should contain. Farina believes all new water supplies should be placed into a reserve and she supports an ordinance to prohibit further water allocations until whatever drought reserve figure is eventually decided upon is met.

Measure A will help save the last piece of undeveloped Pacific Grove shoreline. It will allow the City of Pacific Grove to raise one million dollars over ten years which would be added to the funds offered by state and regional agencies for the purchase of this endangered area.

Equipment tips

Dear Editor:

As Voter Service Chair for the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters, I believe it is most timely before the Nov. 5 election to review some important things about our machine-operated election equipment:

Be sure your machine punches exactly in the middle of the hole for your choice. If it is over a line, get a new ballot.

Don't try to correct the old ballot. If you make a mistake and punch an area that has no box, do not reinsert the card and punch it in the correct place—get a new ballot and punch it correctly.

Do not mark absentee ballots with crosses or checks in the old-fashioned manner. The machine cannot read them. Be absolutely sure the entire little tab is completely out of the hole you punched. If it lingers, partly attached, it may not be counted. This often happens in the absentee ballots where holes are punched with a pencil, but not removed.

Be sure you vote the entire ballot, unless you really choose not to vote on some issue.

Read instructions: inattentive voters are apt to lose their vote. Finally, who says your vote doesn't count?

CRA supports...

Dear Editor:

Fran Farina, Dick Heuer and Ken Long have been endorsed by the Carmel Residents Association for the Nov. 5 Monterey Peninsula Water Management District election. Farina and Heuer are running for four-year seats; Long, for the two-year seat. The CRA did not feel there was a third candidate whom it could support for the other four-year position.

Farina, Heuer and Long were endorsed after careful review of answers to a questionnaire sent to all candidates, as well as detailed examination of the known record of those running. Heuer and Long,

The Pine Cone recommends...

Shaping the peninsula

FIRST AND foremost, the Pine Cone believes that the most important aspect of election day is taking part in the democratic process by casting your ballot.

There are, however, several races that we believe may be critical to the shaping of the Monterey Peninsula. These are: the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board; Carmel Unified School District Board of Trustees; and Monterey Peninsula College Board of Trustees.

For water board, the Pine Cone recommends re-electing the four incumbents who have successfully navigated the board through a five-year drought and are poised on making a number of critical decisions on a long-term water supply for the peninsula.

The four incumbents are Dick Heuer, former chairman and eight-year veteran of the board; Paul E. Davis and Jim Hughes, four-year members of the water board; and Kenneth Long, who was appointed last year to fill a vacancy created by the death of Bob Russell.

Heuer, Davis and Hughes are seeking full four-year terms, while Long is seeking election to a two-year term defined after Russell's death.

The CUSD school board election is no simple matter; dividing four excellent candidates into three available seats always will leave one disappointed person.

And while we laud the superb job that candidates and current CUSD board members Patricia Condren, Hilton Bialek and Gary Gray have done in guiding the district into the '90s, contender Jamie Warren deserves a chance to demonstrate his managerial skills on the board.

For that reason, we recommend electing Warren and two of the capable three incumbent candidates.

When it comes to the MPC board what can we say? Dr. Bob Infelise, who recently retired as CUSD Superintendent, is the logical choice for one of the three seats up for grabs.

Not only does he have a life-long career in education, he is familiar and able to deal with the growing fiscal problems facing education in the current decade.

as incumbents, have strongly supported the rights of residents in the continuing scramble for available water. Fran Farina has been a strong and knowledgeable voice for residents as co-chair of the Residents Water Committee and as a member of the Rationing Management Audit Committee and the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association Water Management Committee.

The CRA feels that election of these three outstanding candidates would create a water board that would continue its pursuit of a new water supply through a dam and/or desalination along with provisions for a drought reserve and a commitment to protect the fragile Carmel River environment.

Splashy destruction

Dear Editor:

The British poet Gerard Manley Hopkins must have had a vision a hundred years ago of the steel and rubber river that CalTrans plans to green light into our green canyon habitat when he penned this impassioned plea:

*What would the world be once bereft
Of wet and wildness? Let them be left,
O let them be left, wildness and wet;
Long live the weeds and the wilderness yet.*

Walden Pond's Thoreau entered his not uncertain protest many decades later when he declared that "In wildness is the preservation of the world."

Do we, the self-appointed custodians of this incomparable area, really want to be put on the cutting edge of our culture's heedless procedures to make this beautiful little planet unfit to live on?

What's wrong with those tunnel visions to whisk all those cars by?

Do we really want to follow in the hoofsteps of those Gadarene Breathless Hogs who raced down the slopes to their own splashy destruction?

Get a life, Carmel

Dear Editor:

Get a life, Carmel...

In the wake of the attempt to clean up a traffic jam at Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road by building the Hatton Canyon Freeway, Carmel has engineered the same problem from Carpenter Street to Ocean Avenue.

Of the 100 percent southbound traffic coming over Carmel Hill, 34 percent goes to Carmel Valley. Those autos will travel the new freeway. Presently 25 percent go down Carpenter and then fan out on the truck route, Junipero, or past the Statue, Camino Del Monte, San Carlos and Dolores. seven percent exits Highway 1 down Ocean Avenue. Add those together and try to jam them onto the Avenue. Even now, autos back up Highway 1 in both the yield and curb lanes.

CalTrans' original interchange at Carpenter would avoid the problem. The new one builds a separate overpass where the entire population of High Meadow is diverted to enter at Ocean Avenue.

A second overpass channels drivers to

Four candidates vie for three seats on CUSD board

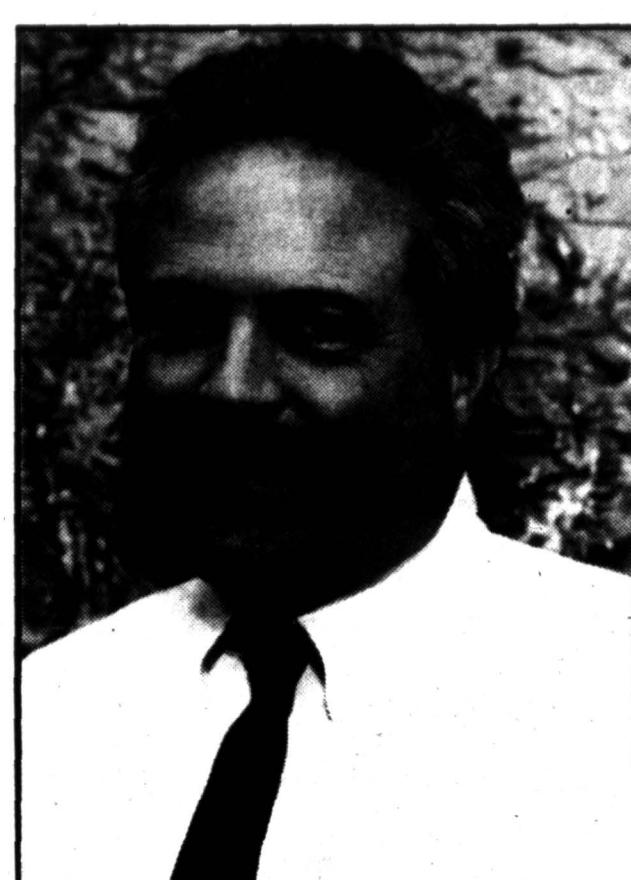

Jamie Warren

Patricia Condren

Hilton Bialek

Gary Gray

NEWCOMER JAMIE Warren maintains that it is critical for the board to infuse new blood into its membership.

The father of two young children, Warren said he hopes to be elected in order to provide direction to his children's education.

"Being a parent connects me to the school system," he said. "I want to make sure my kids have some of the same opportunities that were there for the kids ahead of them."

As manager of The Lodge at Pebble Beach, Warren said he believes his experience in running large business concerns will be a boon for the CUSD, if he is elected.

Warren points out that his three opponents are all extremely talented incumbents, it's just time for a change.

"I just think it's time for some new people to share the responsibility," he said.

CURRENT CUSD Chairwoman Patricia Condren believes that her educational and administrative experience will assist the district in facing critical needs of the '90s.

A retired chemistry/biology teacher in the Salinas school district, Condren was first elected to the CUSD Board of Trustees in 1983, and survived the recall effort of 1985.

During her tenure, Condren, whose three children attended schools in the district, points to accomplishments such as positive changes at Carmel Middle School, where Principal Karl Pallastri was brought on board to boost morale and shore up lacking curriculum.

At Carmel High School, Condren was active in increasing graduation requirements, revising curriculum and establishing a core group for freshmen.

In addition, she lobbied for a community service requirement for graduation.

"There's some subtle things that go on when people volunteer their time," said Condren, who also helped establish a seven-period day at the high school to provide a wider breath of classes.

Facing the newly elected board will be dilemmas such as where to allocate $100,000 earmarked for high-tech purchases in the district.

"There's lots of conflicting data," she said, adding that whatever is purchased will likely have to last for many years. "You're pretty well locked in."

Also looming before the board is the perennial problem of how to fund an upgrading of the district's failing infrastructure.

"That will be a big problem for us," she said. "It's an old district and old buildings. There's so much that needs to be done."

HILTON BIALEK has spent a good portion of the past 30 years tending to the duties of the CUSD Board of Trustees.

First elected in 1963, Bialek served on the board until 1971. He was then asked to complete an ousted member's term in 1985. He was re-elected in 1987.

"I'm interested in public education," said Bialek, a retired research psychologist. "Schools are a crucial part of our society."

Bialek said he enjoys the rigors of overseeing the district.

"I think I'm an easy person to work with," said Bialek, whose three grown children attended local schools. "I'm responsive to other people's opinions."

Bialek said winning back the community's confidence after the bitter recall election in 1985 was no easy feat.

"We created a much more trusting and open relationship with the community and restored a high level of morale in the school system," he said.

Bialek added he is looking forward to continuing his agenda with newly named CUSD Supt. Vance Baldwin.

"I have great confidence in Vance Baldwin," said Bialek, who looks to instigating new programs at Carmel High School and Middle School in the coming years. "I just want to continue in the direction we are going."

Bialek said he is also a firm believer in providing teachers with a continuing source of expanded educational programs to enhance their professions.

"I can add in the search for quality education; it's stimulating to me," he said. "I feel that I am a responsible board member."

FIRST ELECTED to the CUSD Board of Trustees, attorney Gary Gray brings to the board a wide breath of business acumen.

The father of two students at Carmel High School, Gray oversees 23 employees in a Monterey law firm.

During the past four years, Gray has also put his people skills to the test.

"Labor relations have been one of the strong points," said Gray, adding that teachers should be well compensated for their work. "We improved salaries and they very much deserved it."

Gray also was instrumental in the district pulling out of a joint insurance program and becoming self-insurance.

"Our fiscal position is extremely strong," said Gray, who received the endorsement of Carmel teachers. "The present board must take some credit for that."

One of the key issues facing the district now, however, lies in its ability to redefine its mission.

"We find that there is a tremendous amount of reliance on schools that we were created by society," he said, adding that schools now must be prepared to fill voids left by dysfunctional families. "We need more psychologists."

Toward that end, Gray points to the CUSD's "cutting edge" childcare program that helps parents and works on a sliding scale.

Gray also said that he is deeply involved in the CUSD's quest to upgrade its high-tech capabilities through a $100,000 fund set up for that goal.

"We have to do more and I would like to be a part of it," he said. "We certainly need to do more with computers so kids can understand it and be successful."

What the CUSD board does...

ELECTED TO staggered four-year terms, the five-member Carmel Unified School District Board of Trustees provides policy direction and guidance to the school district.

During its monthly meetings, which usually take place in the library of Carmel Middle School, the board grapples with decisions ranging from teacher salary disputes to overseeing and implementing additional educational programs.

The board, which receives input from CUSD Supt. Vance Baldwin, also receives spot presentations from various departments from within the district.

Water board ballot crowded with seven candidates for four seats

SEVEN CANDIDATES for the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District's board of directors are vying for only four seats in the days preceeding the Nov. 5 election.

Current boardmembers Dick Heuer, Paul Davis and Jim Hughes are seeking new four-year terms. They are opposed by Fran Farina and Joe Noto. The seats will go to the three highest vote getters.

Pebble Beach resident Jeff Grover is up against incumbent Ken Long for a two-year board slot.

Jeff Grover, who has run unsuccessfully for the board twice before, said he is well aware of the political realities.

"As a result, I have learned that the problems that the district faces are political and not technical," he said. "These political issues have turned neighbor against neighbor and one faction against another. It is time to resolve these political issues so that they do not block our progress toward developing an adequate water supply."

He advocates the establishment of a new committee called Monterey Peninsula 2020, which would look into the future picture and focus on growth issues like water, traffic and Fort Ord.

Grover, who has been branded by some as a pro-growth candidate, calls himself "a closet environmentalist." The civil engineer supports the idea of building a new dam, which would be "the only project that fully supports environmental concerns on the Carmel River."

Attorney Fran Farina is adamantly against allocating any more water for growth until a 2,600 acre-foot drought reserve is established. She is trying for one of the three four-year seats that are open.

"Like many voters in 1989, I hoped the newly elected board was going to honor its promise to reduce by half the new water connections it would allow," Farina said. "But nothing was put into drought reserve, even though the law said it was required."

The Carmel Valley resident supports water reclamation, additional wells in Seaside and a desalination plant, but she has concerns about the cost of extracting salt from seawater. The dam is the district's number one project unless the agencies that issue permits say it is no longer feasible, she said.

Farina is a Residents Water Committee co-chair and a registered lobbyist in Florida. She said her government experience would come in handy when agencies look at the district's water project

EIR/EIS.

Retired dentist Noto supports new growth, saying he cherishes the thought that hotel companies are still eying the peninsula. The building industry is an intricate part of the peninsula's economy, he said, and with Fort Ord leaving, some balancing of the water supply is needed.

"Nov. 5 is final exam time," said the Carmel Valley resident. "No more studies. You either pass or flunk."

Noto is violently opposed to metering small wells however, and he said mandatory metering is a violation of property rights.

"I'm concerned for all residents that live here, (including) the rednecks in Carmel Valley, the butterfly people in Pacific Grove, the fishermen in Monterey and the people in Seaside who are concerned about their future with Fort Ord closing."

Once again, Dick Heuer is seeking another four-year term. He has served on the board since 1983.

To many, his views on growth could be considered somewhat conservative. The Carmel Valley resident does not believe the water meter moratorium should be lifted until the Peralta Avenue well in Seaside comes on line next April.

Even then, only 54 acre feet of its annual output should go toward development, and the new dam shouldn't be taken as "a blank check for unlimited growth."

The former chairman of the board was actively involved in the campaign that won Congressional approval for the Ventana land exchange, and it was a major blockade to dam approval, Heuer said.

"Public officials should protect the public interest, not special interests," the former CIA official said. "I have no financial interest in how water is used on the Monterey Peninsula."

Pacific Grove dentist Jim Hughes puts the 24,000 acre-foot New Los Padres dam high on his political platform as he tries for his second four-year term. Hughes said it is the district's least expensive water supply option.

When queried about the water permit moratorium, he sounds less restrictive than co-candidate Dick Heuer. He said a long, rainy winter would justify another look at the ordinance.

Hughes has 20 years experience in local government, having served on the Pacific Grove city council as well as the Coastal Commission and the Association of Monterey Bay Area Governments.

"I feel I have clearly demonstrated an action-oriented attitude toward developing and implementing reasonable and balanced solutions to problems combined with a compassion for our natural resources," Hughes said.

Pebble Beach CSD expecting high voter turnout at the polls

RESIDENTS OF Pebble Beach Community Services District will vote Tuesday to fill three open seats on the agency board.

Incumbents David Sprenger and George Murphy will attempt to keep their chairs, while panelist John Strong retired.

Other candidates and their professional designations on the sample ballot: Philip Fields (retired financial consultant), Serge Aronovici (consultant), Wesley Bailey (retired consultant and forester), William Gianelli (consulting civil engineer), Hampton Stewart III (communications consultant), Robert Shepner (retired banker).

The service area contains 3,728 registered voters, according to figures at the administrative offices. District General Manager Dick Andrews said the voter turnout "usually runs at least 50 percent — higher than most other areas."

The district provides sanitary services, fire protection, garbage collection. One major matter to be faced by new board members was continuing evaluation of the California-American water system as regards firefighting capabilities.

Former CUSD head vying for MPC board

RETIRED CUSD Supt. Dr. Bob Infelise, who is running for the Monterey Peninsula College Board of Directors, says he is merely continuing a saga begun long ago.

"All my life I have been involved in education," he said. "I have come to believe that the community college is a key element in our system of free education. It is the bridge for students that are going on to college and those preparing themselves for the world of work."

Infelise added that it make pure economical sense to take advantage of local schools.

"Considering the limitation of money available to community colleges, MPC is doing an excellent job of preparing its students," Infelise said.

Infelise, a graduate of Hollister Junior College, touts the idea community educational campus.

"We're it not for my opportunity to go to community college, I would never have been able to go onto university," he said.

Infelise points out that he formerly served on a junior college board in for two terms.

"With this additional experience I believe I can make a contribution to the success of MPC," he said. "The next few years will be critical for the college; funding for education in general will be in short supply."

Infelise believes he can make a difference.

"MPC will be faced with making some priority decisions about budget cuts. In addition the closing of Fort Ord will pose some significant instructional program challenges," he said. "I believe I can help the board and the staff in making the right decisions for the college."

Library an invaluable resource for all types of readers in the area

QUESTION TO the public: "What does the Harrison Memorial Library mean to you?"

SANDRA ZYLKA, student: "That's a difficult question to answer, because the library means so many things to me. It's the community's best resource and curiosity's best friend."

JULIUS FRIEDMAN, columnist: "To me, as a long-time library user, the glory of the Carmel library is its wonderful librarians. I have never worked with more dedicated librarians."

ALYS BLIESNER, teacher: "My third grade class thoroughly enjoyed our visit to the Harrison Library. The local history room was the inspiration and focal point for our social studies unit."

IONA LOGIE, retired counselling psychologist: "I consider myself very fortunate to have the generous and cheerful service of the library's outreach program. While I can choose books from the shelves for myself, the present use of two canes prevents me from carrying them home. So, the frequent visits of our librarians give me pleasure in themselves, as well as providing me with just the books I favor."

These comments, given to the Pine Cone, are a sampling of what the Harrison Memorial Library means to the people of this area. The Carmel Free Library Association began library service in 1906, before Carmel-by-the-Sea existed as a city. The Harrison Memorial Library has always been a cornerstone of our community.

The Harrison Library has always served the greater Carmel community. Currently, the city of Carmel-by-the-Sea contributes one of the highest per capita levels of support in the United States. The Harrison Library has 12,000 cardholders; 8000 live outside the city limits. Soon, the Harrison Library will not receive any direct tax support for serving these non-city residents.

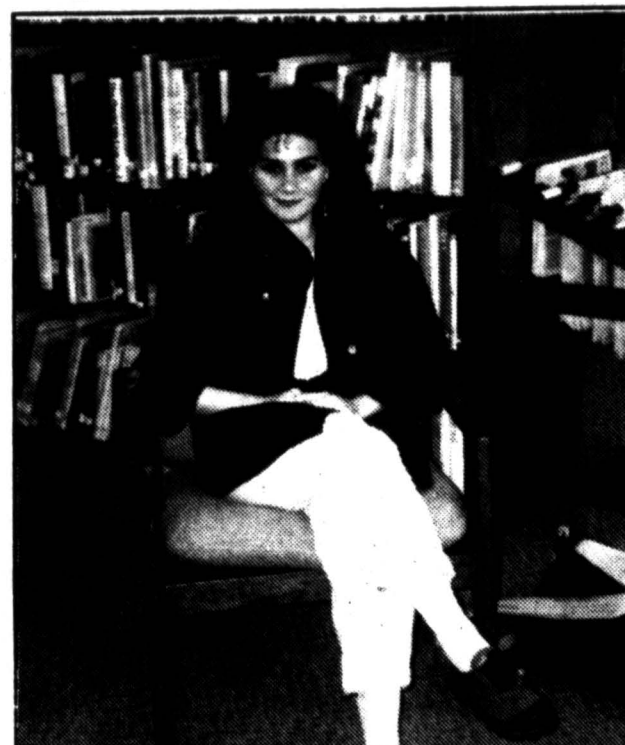

Library Director Margaret Pelikan stated,

"Our library wants to continue serving everyone free of charge. Realistically, we need a new source of funds to do this. I believe that the spirit of Andrew Carnegie still exists in our society. Individual library support will enable our library to continue free service. We need and appreciate everyone's contribution."

The Carmel Public Library Foundation will conduct its second annual campaign October - December. Lamont Wiltse, President of the Carmel Public Library Foundation, emphasized, "The purpose of our foundation is to raise and grant funds to support the book and operating budget of the library. These personal gifts are vital, since county funding reductions have cut the library's book budget by 50%.

Beginning Monday, Oct. 28, the foundation mailed campaign brochures announcing "Your Library Needs You." This urgent appeal is being sent to approximately 10,000 households in the Harrison library service area. The annual campaign goal, according to Don Kremer, Annual Campaign chair, is $75,000; last year's annual campaign raised approximately $30,000. All proceeds from this campaign are earmarked for the Harrison Memorial Library's book and program budget.

SANDRA ZYLKA, student: "That's a difficult question to answer, because the library means so many things to me. It's the community's best resource and curiosity's best friend."

JULIUS FRIEDMAN, columnist: "To me, as a long-time library user, the glory of the Carmel library is its wonderful librarians. I have never worked with more dedicated librarians."

Unaffiliated persons can bridge the gap

IN AN effort to "bridge the gap" for people who have a personal belief in God but are not comfortable in traditional churches, St. Philip's Lutheran Church is offering a "First Sunday" spiritual experience.

On Sunday, Nov. 3, the new program will be held in the church sanctuary located at 8065 Carmel Valley Road.

First Sunday will be a monthly offering of music by Pat Mahoney of the local bluegrass group, "Homefire," discussion, and spiritual exploration especially for persons who are not currently attending church.

For more information call 624-6765.

New Management for Valley Cinema

MICHAEL BERNARDI of Pacific Grove has taken over the lease of the Valley Cinema. The theater is temporarily closed to be remodeled and re-equipped. Bernardi said he hopes to reopen by Christmas under new management.

CARMEL VALLEY moms and babies put on their "shades" for the Monterey Adult School "Baby

Baby and you

FAMILIES COME to Carmel Valley from all over the Monterey Peninsula to find the sun. This week, the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center was invaded by babies...18 of them!

The Monterey Adult School "Baby and Me" class gathered for picnics throughout the week in the warm Carmel Valley sun after going pumpkin hunting in the valley.

All of the babies were under six months, accompanied by 15 mamas and two papas. The group meets weekly at Archer Park Recreation Center on Wednesdays under the direction of Gail Root. The Monterey Adult School also offers classes for parents with children up to age three. For more information call the Monterey Adult School at 899-1615.

Joan Sinnet of Carmel Valley, mother of an 18 month old and four year old, wanted her children to have playmates. Joan needed some adult interaction as well so she started a group from Carmel Valley called "Moms and Kids." They meet weekly on Wednesdays at 11 a.m. at the tot-lot at the Community Youth Center. All moms and kids are invited to join at no charge. Simply bring a picnic lunch and come out and play! If you'd like more information, call Joan at 659-0360.

Success is the name of the game at Tularcitos Elementary School.

Beth Lawn, third-grade teacher, and Jenn Simmons, fifth grade teacher, are changing the rules when it comes to games. Beth and Jenn have both received "Mentorships" with Jack Evans who has specialized in physical education for over thirty years. Beth and Jenn are passing on his philosophy to students and teachers alike through "in-service" workshops directed to teachers from throughout the county. The "Jack Evans conviction" is that "everybody plays and everybody wins."

Jenn and Beth assert that self-esteem skill building ties directly in with academic learning. Everyone participates and everyone is successful at Tularcitos. Karin Camilli, principal, is even having the playground "colorized" to coincide with the belief that children who play happily and feel included with the other children will feel better about themselves and learn easier. The playground will have new Jack Evans games painted on the surface in various bright colors.

Are you overwhelmed and experiencing stress? Do you feel like the old plate juggler we used to watch on Ed Sullivan...running from one stick to the next, trying to keep all the plates whirling without any of them crashing to the floor?

The Carmel Valley Community Youth Center has just the thing for you. Learn to take the stress out of your life with Wendy Keystone, Yoga Instructor. Each Thursday at 7:30 p.m., join Wendy by candlelight to breathe softly, stretch out your stress, and find another way to deal with things that bother you rather than yelling at the children! Yoga means UNION; the union of body, mind, and spirit through the breath. Wendy will help you to find clarity, stillness, and peace within yourself. Call Wendy at 659-4333 for more information.

Moms...have you reached the point where you're a little burned out doing things for everyone else? Why not take a full day for yourself and give yourself some T.L.C. You deserve it! Saturday, Nov. 9 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., the Carmel Valley Community Center will offer a full day of pampering, color analysis, fashion and accessories, make-up analysis and make-over, skin care, new hairdo, neck, hand, and foot massage plus a full catered lunch all for $100.

Three of the most outstanding women in their fields, Kathy Cadigan, image consultant, Laura Locke, certified massage therapist, and Shonna Scholink, hairdresser, will get you ready for the Holiday Season with a day planned all for you with information you can use for the rest of your life. A divine lunch will be catered by the Chef from Heaven, Shiela McMahan.

Get ready for the rush of the Holiday Season with a little relaxation now! Call Kathleen 759-3983 for more information.

Ocean Avenue by configuration and directional signs.

Carmel is a mile-square village of 4,239 souls. The 25 percent and 7 percent exiting to Carmel are Carmel residents and visitors. Carmel needs them; 32 percent of their income is from hostelry tax, 23% from sales tax.

Don't push your problems up the hill and swamp Highway 1 from Carpenter to Ocean Avenue. Keep the present fortunate network of seven routes into town. Avoid a build-up of another long delay to drive past Carmel.

Once the freeway is completed, the present road will be returned to the county. With all the problems mounting, the county would be well advised not to accept it.

Distaff viewpoint

Dear Editor:

We were glad to see your Oct. 11 story about David Gordon ("Out of despair comes inner peace for CV men's mentor"), but we were surprised that your story did not include a more balanced treatment of the Gordons' work.

Philemon's Retreat was jointly conceived of and developed by David Gordon and his wife and partner Chris-Ann Gordon as a retreat for both men and women. Both Gordons continue to facilitate inner work groups at Philemon's. Chris-Ann's facilitation of men's and women's inner work is enriched by her advanced studies in Transpersonal Psychology and expressive arts.

Philemon's has hosted many kinds of inner work events for many people, both men and women—in the form of men's events, women's events, and mixed group events.

In addition to the men's groups your story mentioned, Philemon's offers ongoing women's groups facilitated by Chris-Ann Gordon. Some of these groups have been in continuous existence for more than a year.

Even taking into account a reporter's right to choose an angle on a story, we feel the story's one-sided reportage of Philemon's Retreat and the Gordons' work does a great disservice to the full spectrum of the work being done there.

Those of us who have signed this letter speak for many other women who continue to participate in inner work events at Philemon's.

Water committee endorses

Dear Editor:

The Residents Water Committee was formed to protect the public interest in decisions concerning our water supply—how to increase that supply and how to distribute fairly the present inadequate supply.

We attempt to represent the interests of local residents and small businesses and regularly appear and comment at meetings of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD). We collected over 10,000 signatures on a petition to limit new connections to the Cal-Am system in 1989—a move considered necessary due to the unwillingness of the Lombardo Board to respond to community concerns.

There will be four seats up for election to the MPWMD Board of Directors on Nov. 5. The Residents Water Committee asked the candidates for their positions on a number of questions concerning costs of new water, drought reserve, desalination and rationing.

Based upon these responses as well as past performance in the case of incumbents, we are endorsing three candidates in the upcoming election.

They are: Fran Farina and Dick Heuer for the four-year seats and Kenneth Long for the two-year seat.

Warren supporter

Dear Editor:

As Carmel Unified School District faces an enormous financial challenge on the '90s, the upcoming school board election becomes all the more important.

I'm supporting Jamie Warren. As a former School Board member of CUSD, I recognize the importance of members with a strong business background in times of fiscal curses. Mr. Warren is that person. Furthermore, Jamie is the parent of two young school age children with a long term commitment to our district.

He has a bachelors degree in education and is familiar with the academic dimension of governing our district. Carmel schools need a board member with his resources and experience.

Hats off to his willingness to serve. Vote for Jamie Warren, CUSD Board of Education on Nov. 5.

Another vote for Warren

Dear Editor:

Nov. 5, 1991 is election day and I fear that people will stay away from the polls because of a lack of exciting issues. This is our chance, however, to make a difference in our children's future.

Jamie Warren, Manager of the Lodge at Pebble Beach is running for the Carmel Unified School District Board and I urge all to vote for him. Jamie is young (age 40), energetic, the father of two young children, with an excellent business background and has the willingness to shoulder the responsibility.

In the '90s and the future, we must look toward a private/public partnership for

• "I know that, in this (economic) climate, hotels aren't making a killing. The big chain hotels will survive, but I think some others will go under. They all need to start paying more to attract workers. Lots of jobs just aren't being filled. And there must be some type of affordable, perhaps employer-sponsored housing. I mean reduced rate housing. Over the long term, I'd be willing to explore this with them. I'm on the Fort Ord Task Force organized by Congressman Panetta. Yes, now that I think of it, I will suggest using part of the facilities out there as hospitality work force housing."

• "This (housing) inevitably will end up a money issue. Who'll pay? If the industry wants qualified people, the matter must be addressed. I don't see hotel executives as greedy. It's a matter of awareness and sensitivity. I think they simply don't realize how difficult it is to live here and raise a family, based on current earnings. Our (union) people have on-the-job meals in their contracts. It's sad but true that other hospitality personnel may be going hungry even though they have jobs."

• "This area hasn't done enough to promote itself in comparison to other vacation destinations. They're actively putting aside money to attract visitors. People in business — not cities or chambers of commerce — have started the Monterey County Travel and Tourism Bureau. Yes, the union's working with them. I'm hopeful that these efforts will help. We're looking for ways to promote the entire county. So far, this's being talked about as a national promotion. We need to catch up. . . ."

Board needs challenge

Dear Editor:

Finally, we three incumbents on the Carmel Area Wastewater District (Art Haseltine, Charlotte Townsend and me), have a challenger on the ballot. This is good news because it gives me a chance to showcase all the great things that our district has done and is doing.

When I came on the board of directors two elected terms ago, the district was just completing a major upgrade of the plant, which increased its capacity from 2.4 million gallons per day MGD to 3.0 MGD.

A few years ago the district began negotiations for a wastewater reclamation project which would send our treated wastewater to irrigate the Pebble Beach golf courses. This project is now about halfway through design and is scheduled to deliver reclaimed water to the golf courses by 1993, thereby freeing up approximately 800 acre feet of drinking water. It will be possible for our plant to produce additional reclaimed water if and when there is another customer.

Since the district's formation in 1908, the offices have been housed in rented spaces. A financial analysis determined that for future years it would be advantageous to purchase or construct our own building. In 1990 we completed our new building at 3945 Rio Road. It is wood frame and stucco with composition shingle roof, an inexpensive construction system. Financial figures show a depreciation savings of $13,800 per year and an equity increase of approximately $50,000 per year.

In addition to reclamation, we are also involved in further upgrade of our secondary process in response to drought-caused problems of solids loading. It has been gratifying to note that many months have passed without a recurrence of these problems.

Thanks to our excellent staff, our financial position is solid (even though our rates are reasonable), our plant is well-run and we look forward to providing a continuing high level of service.

Maybe the reason that you never hear about our district is that "it ain't broke," so there's nothing to fix. Mark us on the ballot.

Sign of the times?

Dear Editor:

Whether it was the fog, a tree branch, or simply fate this past Sunday, I clearly missed any signs that may be posted coming off of Hwy1 indicating how one may park for more than one hour and enjoy your beautiful city.

Coming from out of town, I was not aware that remote parking exists and because remote/legal parking was not obvious, I was left with the impression that moving my car and "trading places" with other visitors every hour was the only option available. Finally, at the end of an exhausting day of "Cat and Mouse", I lost track of time and found the inevitable ticket on my windshield.

The city of Capitola (having an equally difficult parking problem) offers remote parking and shuttle bus to the beach and town. As a visitor to Capitola, I appreciate this immensely. The sign coming off of Hwy. 1 is large, bright, and obvious. Visiting Capitola is enjoyable and carefree due to the fact that the city appreciates the business and revenues brought to them via tourism.

As many times as I have been to your city, I have never been aware of a similar service. After speaking with a nice lady in your Tourist Information Office, I am now aware that remote parking exists, and that there is indeed a sign off of the highway; however, I doubt that this sign was terribly visible or obvious.

I would like to recommend to the city of Carmel that a few dollars be spent on a nice large blue sign right off of Hwy 1 on Ocean Avenue, directing visitors to the free/legal ample parking areas in town that could amount to immeasurable good will toward your city and would promote tourism. It would be a small price to pay to maintain the reputation Carmel has built over the years.

Plague of public opinion

Dear Editor:

May the first plague fall on the White House. A fatal plague of public opinion that puts the blame for this whole Thomas/Hill exorcism where it belongs—on Bush's febrile back—for nominating a man whose judicial experience is so manifestly inadequate, and who prior to nomination was at best a political hack.

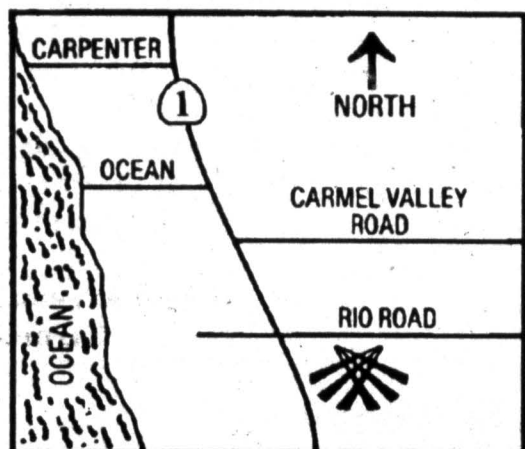

May the second plague fall on the House of Thomas. A plague of professional stalemate for a man whose life history suggests a personality that puts self-aggrandizement above principle, and who has been revealed in his "defensive" testimony as less than judicial in thought and temperament.

May the third plague fall on the House of Hill. A plague of personal emptiness for a female who most certainly has chosen (based on the time of 10 years and her job history sequence) to exploit for personal reasons her past experiences with Thomas.

Finally, but almost more important than any of the above, may a plague fall on the Senate's committee (and on the whole Senate in loco parentis) for all the glaringly obvious reasons; but especially for having a chairman who does not know the difference between incidents and incidences, and for having a member who apparently does not own a long-sleeved dress shirt. I don't know! Are they outlawed in Arizona?

Doris Day's Best Friends

By Doris Day

Happy Halloween

WITCHES, GHOSTS and goblins will be happily haunting our neighborhoods tonight, but Halloween is anything but fun for our four-legged friends.

They can find the presence of so many strangers threatening and confusing, and the noise and costumes create even more of a problem. Your dog may usually be friendly and his behavior predictable, but on this night, feeling protective of his home, he may become aggressive or frightened. Cats are highly sensitive animals and any change in routine can cause them to become very agitated. It would be easy for your kitty-cat to dart out during the constant opening and closing of the door—and you may not even be aware he's gone until hours later.

For a truly Happy Halloween, try these helpful hints:

- Confine your pet to a quiet room and look in on him from time to time to reassure him that all is well. An outdoor pet should certainly be kept inside for the night.
- Be sure your pet is wearing his ID collar and tag just in case he gets out.
- Keep all Halloween candies away from your pet.

Candy is bad for his system and chocolate can be toxic to dogs!

Again, we reiterate, confine your pet to a quiet room. It's the most important thing you can do for him on this GHOSTLY night!

WE GET LETTERS...

Q. My dog pants during the hot weather, but my cat always seems cool as a cucumber, no matter how warm it gets. Do cats pant?

A. The only time I've seen my cats pant is when they're stressed — either fearful or angry. So I asked my veterinarian and he told me cats do indeed pant to cool off, but usually not until their environment is excessively hot—in the 100 degree or above range. Instead they attempt to lower their body temperature by licking their coats. As the saliva evaporates, they cool off.

Q. I know it's important to keep tartar from building up on my pet's teeth, but can I use "people" toothpaste?

A. No. There are special dentifrices and brushes for cats and dogs and special techniques that your veterinarian can teach you. Check with him before you begin your at-home care.

Q. How do dogs get tapeworms and what do they look like?

A. Swallowing fleas is one common way your pet can get tapeworms. The segments resemble grains of rice and they can be seen beneath an infested animal's tail or in his stool. A dog with tapeworms may scoot bottom-down along the ground, have diarrhea, or eat more than usual without gaining weight. If you think your Best Friend has tapeworms, take a fresh stool sample to your veterinarian for diagnosis and the proper medication.

That's all for this week. See you next time!

The hardest year

WHEN FRESHMEN begin their journey through high school, teachers and fellow students never fail to warn them about what lies ahead. The impressionable ninth-graders are told that the junior year is the hardest, most important year of their high school careers. Does the junior year really live up to its tough rap?

According to senior Amber Huntington, junior year was the hardest "because of U.S. History and Your Language (a SAT prep course)—especially since Your Language takes a lot of work and logic. Plus, junior year is the most important year for college."

Senior Crystal Armstrong agrees: "For me it was hard, especially Marine Biology. Other people though say this (senior) year is the hardest."

Senior Chris Wagdy felt that his freshman year was his hardest because "there was such a jump from middle school to high school. Algebra, History, and classes that required a lot of memorization as opposed to logic were tough."

How are the present juniors finding this infamous year? Is it as hard as it was promised? Junior Lellani Santa-Maria agrees with the prophecy: "It is harder. Every day I have homework in every class and it takes me more than four hours to finish it all!" Algebra II and Chemistry have forced Lellani to burn the midnight oil.

Homework has also gotten junior Nicole Tallent: "There is a lot of homework and I end up so tired at night. This year is also the year for taking the SAT's too."

Juniors Chris Tarnas and Adam Licisko seem to be taking their junior years a little easier. Chris says that

"it's been harder than all the other years because of Chemistry and German." Adam has a different view. "No," he observed, "my junior year has been quite easy—sophomore year was a little harder."

For freshmen and sophomores looking ahead to their junior year, the seniors have a bit of advice. "Take it seriously—try to learn and use that knowledge to your advantage," recommends Amber. "There is a lot of pressure and it's a struggle to get into college," warns Chris. Crystal's advice is: "Don't be scared—it's not that hard!"

ATTENTION FRESHMEN, SOPHOMORES, JUNIORS AND SENIORS!

Carmel High will host its 9th annual College Night Thursday, Nov. 9 at 7 p.m. in the CHS gym. Representatives from over 60 colleges will be there. A panel presentation by the University of California, California State University, and Independent School Systems will be held at 7 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria. Students and parents of all Monterey Peninsula Schools are invited. For more information, please call 624-4357. Hope to see you there!

Seideneck Internships available

Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art is now taking applications from local college art students who wish to apply for Seideneck Internships. There are three one-year positions available for 1992. The internships are work experiences which complement academic training under supervision by museum staff members. There is a $100 stipend, and students are required to provide 24 hours per month of their time to the museum. Students who want to apply should send a resume and cover letter along with three letters of recommendation to: Seideneck Internships, MPMA, 559 Pacific St., Monterey, Calif., 93940. The Deadline for applications for 1992 is Nov. 22, 1991. Internships start on Jan. 1, 1992. For more information call 372-5477.

Type O Donors needed now

The Community Hospital Blood Center no longer can draw blood at the Defense Language Institute, a major source in earlier years, and in addition, because of a last-minute cancellation of a Bloodmobile, the blood supplies are now seriously low, especially for type O blood. The Blood Center hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday. Also on Thursday from 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. For more information call 625-4814.

The Creative Edge group meets

A fine arts support group sponsored by The Creative Edge: The Way of the Arts offers sharing images, poetry, song, and various other fine arts expressions. The group is free and meets from 9 a.m. to noon at 8 Stratford Place, Monterey. For more information call 373-7809.

Dear Friends:

Those of us who closely follow local water issues have watched the emergence of FRAN FARINA as a strong voice on our behalf. Intelligent, decisive, and water wise—Fran is an ideal candidate for the Water Board.

Appointed to the Rationing Management Audit Committee, she worked hard to eliminate rationing inequities. She co-chaired the Residents Water Committee (which had spearheaded the 1989 petition drive for a moratorium on new water hookups) until she filed for this election.

A director of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, she is active on their Water Management Committee. She has testified regularly before the Water Board on behalf of these organizations.

Fran is the type of person we want—and need—on the Water Board. Join us on November 5th and vote for FRAN FARINA.

Crime Prevention Tip of the Month

Holiday crime

THE HOLIDAY season is rapidly approaching. Unfortunately, along with the good cheer that is normally associated with the season, crime tends to increase as well. The number of residential burglaries experienced on the Peninsula rises during this time of year, and as unpleasant as it may be to think about, Carmel-by-the-Sea is not completely free from the problem.

That said, there are a number of steps one can take to minimize the chances of becoming a victim. If your neighborhood has not already done so, consider forming a "Neighborhood Watch Program." The best defense you and your neighbors have against the criminal element is familiarity with one another. How can your neighbors be expected to recognize a potential problem in your home if they don't know who lives there. They certainly won't know that the truck being loaded with valuables in your driveway is not supposed to be there if they don't know that you are away for the holidays. Get to know your neighbors and let them know if you are going to be away.

If you wish to host a Neighborhood Watch Meeting or want information about how to initiate such a program in your neighborhood, please feel free to call us at 624-6403.

The following is a list of some of the things to look out for which will reduce the chances that you or your neighbors will become a victim this holiday season.

1. Play your hunches! If your "sixth sense" tells you that something is wrong, this is usually an accurate assessment. Don't waste valuable time trying to rationalize the situation. Call us! That way we can respond to the scene and take action immediately. If you hesitate, the opportunity for us to apprehend a suspect at the scene of a crime may be lost, and with it possibly many of your neighbor's valuables.

2. Immediately report suspicious persons or vehicles

Give extra bags to Goodwill

Goodwill Industries is putting out a call for paper and plastic bags for use in their stores in Monterey observed in the neighborhood.

3. Lock all your door and windows when you leave the house even if you are only going to be away for a few minutes. It doesn't take long for a burglar to clean you out.

4. If you don't have an alarm system in your house, consider installing one. If you have one, please use it! A house with an alarm system that is not being used, is a house without one.

The Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department provides a complete Crime Prevention Presentation for both businesses and residents alike. For further information please call us at 624-6403. We want to help you in any way we can.

Party Power

TRADITIONAL CHARITY events predictably mark the seasons for many local people and are part of the fabric of their lives. If it's December it must be time for the "Festival of Trees."

Rather than quarrel with tradition, (who can argue with a Christmas tree?) it should be noted that the fierce competition in charitable fund raising today is not in demonstrating the worthiness of the cause or in the price-per-ticket war, but in attracting the attention of the audience. As the audience has become more sophisticated and demanding, a new consciousness about marketing strategy has become necessary in the charity arena.

The 1980s will go down in the history of fund raising as the decade of the profitable but boring silent auction. How many rounds of golf can Spanish Bay give away and still make money?

Last year the "Fantasy Ball," a benefit for Natividad Medical Center, took the peninsula by storm. Word spread throughout the community about that first incredible party held at Quail Lodge Golf and Country Club. Some social circuit pros ventured to say it was the best bash they had attended in their entire lives. Curious fund raisers from other organizations could hardly wait for this year's event to see for themselves what it was all about.

It was about checking your inhibitions at the door, having fun, getting sweaty, being fresh, creative and a little crazy. Where else this year would you see Quota Club Woman of the Year Morley Brown doing the "Pony" with Barney Segal Trust administrator Elaine Berman, albeit in a dark corner, both of them wearing fluorescent headbands? Or Tom Gray, the charming and hospitable managing partner of Rancho San Carlos, wearing fluorescent anklets with his tuxedo?

The secret to the success of the "Fantasy Ball" has to be Le Masquerade, the dance troupe that invites members of the audience to let their hair down and pretend they're Broadway hoofers for one frenetic night. Haven't you always secretly wished you could be one of the gypsies in Chorus Line? Businessmen who MAYBE dance a foxtrot once a year on their anniversary are hard pressed to refuse an invitation from a leggy girl in a leotard. And if everyone else is out there waving their arms in the air and shouting YEAH, YEAH, YEAH on cue, why not? Credit for the "Fantasy Ball" social phenomenon has to go to Chairwoman Char Etienne and her committee.

Chartwell School's "Night of the Round Tables" was less raucous but no less creative. One "Round Tables" organizer watched as the guests were greeted at the door by Chartwell students and said it looked like a sedate old guard crowd; everyone was wearing black. Just then a blonde in a gold lame jumpsuit made her entrance.

"There's a lot of right-brained stuff here," said Decorations Chairwoman Katie Ewen, referring to the cluster of creative table settings at the Monterey Conference Center. Pink champagne flowed from a fountain on Jackie Craghead-Mathis' table, a forest of collector plates and stemware stood on Artie Early's tribute to Saint Hubert and Pop Art, which featured a basket full of aluminum pop tops was another Katie Ewen original creation. Right on. Credit Co-Chairs Ingrid Brant and Artie Early and their committee for this one.

With all due respects to those old standbys, the silent auction and dinner dance and the perennial holiday favorites, these two recent events captured the imagination of those who attended, both the old and new guard. The range of creative talent in our community is vast. Let's hope we see more right-brained innovation on the fund raising party scene. The 90s may be the value conscious decade, but there's no reason we can't have fun.

LOVE CONNECTION

Last year's "March of Dimes Bid for Bachelors" was another event that lived on in the memories of those who attended. The dearth of eligible men on the peninsula is no secret to the large population of single women. Perl Basseri, chairperson of this year's event, took one look around the Monterey Marriott's Bay Club during the orientation mixer held recently and said, "There are more single men here tonight than anywhere else in town."

But don't let the sheer numbers go to your heads ladies. What are you looking for? A good time? A relationship? Love? Here are a few of the answers this year's group of eligible males gave when asked what they look for in a woman.

RANCHO SAN CARLOS FOUNDATION

The Rancho San Carlos Foundation officially kicked off its environmental lecture series by inviting a small group of local luminaries to hear mountain lion expert Maurice Hornocker tell about the extensive studies he has conducted throughout the western states.

Hornocker, founder of the Wildlife Research Institute in Moscow, Idaho, is a nationally recognized authority and guests Margaret Owings, founder of the Mountain Lion Association; Mayor Jean Grace, Will and Mary Shaw, Jo Stallard, Bob Bussinger and Dr. Mark Stromberg, resi-Hornocker's message: Mountain lions and people can be compatible with proper research and education.

Times must be changing. Teenagers used to be mortified at the thought of going out to dinner with their parents on Saturday night. RED CROSS 75

The weather cleared after the season's first rain and the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross thanked their volunteers at a celebration of 75 years of service held at Holman Ranch.

Red Cross ladies have made a fashion statement throughout the our country's war-time conflicts as "Gray Ladies," "Donut Dollies" and angels of mercy. Red and white balloons waved in the crisp fall air as Phyllis Crockett braved the early fall cold snap and wore a World War II era swimming costume (not exactly skimpy) as part of the fashion parade of Red Cross nurse's uniforms. The authentic uniforms date from the 1890s through the

HOW THIS RAKE CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE.

This simple garden tool is a fire-fighter. It can help you clear away brush and leaves that act like kindling around your home. And you...
So if you live near the forest, do a little raking. And that's not all. Landscape your home with a fire retardant plant like ivy. Use spark arrester screens on your chimney and vents. And put fire retardant material on your roof and underneath your house where it is exposed. Because a forest fire burns more than trees.
Remember. Only you can prevent forest fires.

SPEAKERS READY TO TALK ABOUT ALZHEIMERS

November is Alzheimer's Disease Month and several of the board members of the Monterey County Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association are offering their professional expertise and experience to organizations that want to learn more about the disease.

Alzheimer's disease affects 4,400,000 victims nationwide, and more than 4,000 in Monterey County. For each victim, at least one other person is directly affected by the stresses involved in caregiving. The time, energy and emotional involvement necessary to care effectively for an Alzheimer victim grows as the disease progresses and the victims become unable to do anything for themselves.

"HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS" EVENT SET

The holiday season arrives early on the Monterey Peninsula this year with "Home for the Holidays." Sponsored by Friends of La Mirada, the event is open to the public the weekend of Nov. 8-10. This is the second floral and decorator open house to be held at beautiful La Mirada, the historic adobe, an extension of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art.

Proceeds go for the maintenance of the adobe and its invaluable antique furnishings and works of art. The home will be bursting with unusual and festive ideas for the coming holiday season, presented by almost 30 exhibitors from the San Francisco and Monterey Bay areas.

Featured will be decorator theme rooms, special holiday table settings, floral extravaganzas, and a display of priceless porcelains by Hermes, the distinguished European firm noted for its fine accessories and stylish apparel.

The Shop-in-the-Garden will also be filled with exciting gift ideas. A huge tent will be erected, courtesy of Tiffany & Co., to hold the crowds expected to attend. La Mirada and its gardens will be open to public tours on Friday.

WORKSHOP ON UNLEARNING RACISM SET FOR NOV. 2

A workshop on Unlearning Racism will be featured at the semi-annual gathering of the nine Northern California

Branches of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom on Saturday, Nov. 2, at the Unitarian Church on Aguajito Road on the Carmel Hill.

Facilitators Yeshi Neumann and Sala Steinbach have both been actively involved in the struggle to eliminate racism since the Civil Rights Movement. They are both nurse-midwives from Oakland whose focus of attention for the last 12 years has been to provide quality care for women and families from groups targeted for oppression in our society. They have been leading workshops and consulting on multicultural issues for five years and are in the process of writing a book entitled Building Alliances: An Interactive Manual to be published in the fall of 1992.

While the workshop focuses on racism, it is also presenting a model for healing and empowering which could also be used to address sexism and other oppressions. The workshop will be from 1 to 5.

Earlier in the day, WILPF members will be hearing a report from national board member, Mae Thompson, and will divide into small group sessions to discuss violence against women, responses to the Quincentennial of Columbus' arrival in America, the establishment of a platform on WILPF ideas for government including a shadow cabinet, and a caucus concerning the World Women's Congress for a Healthy Planet which some will attend from Nov. 8-12 in Miami, Florida. (That meeting is a precursor to the UN Environment & Development Conference in Brazil in June 1992).

Women will be attending the all-day meeting from branches in Fresno, Berkeley-East Bay, San Francisco and San Francisco State University, Palo Alto-Peninsula, San Jose, Santa Cruz, Pajaro Valley. Pajaro Valley, a new branch, is the first bilingual WILPF branch in the U.S.

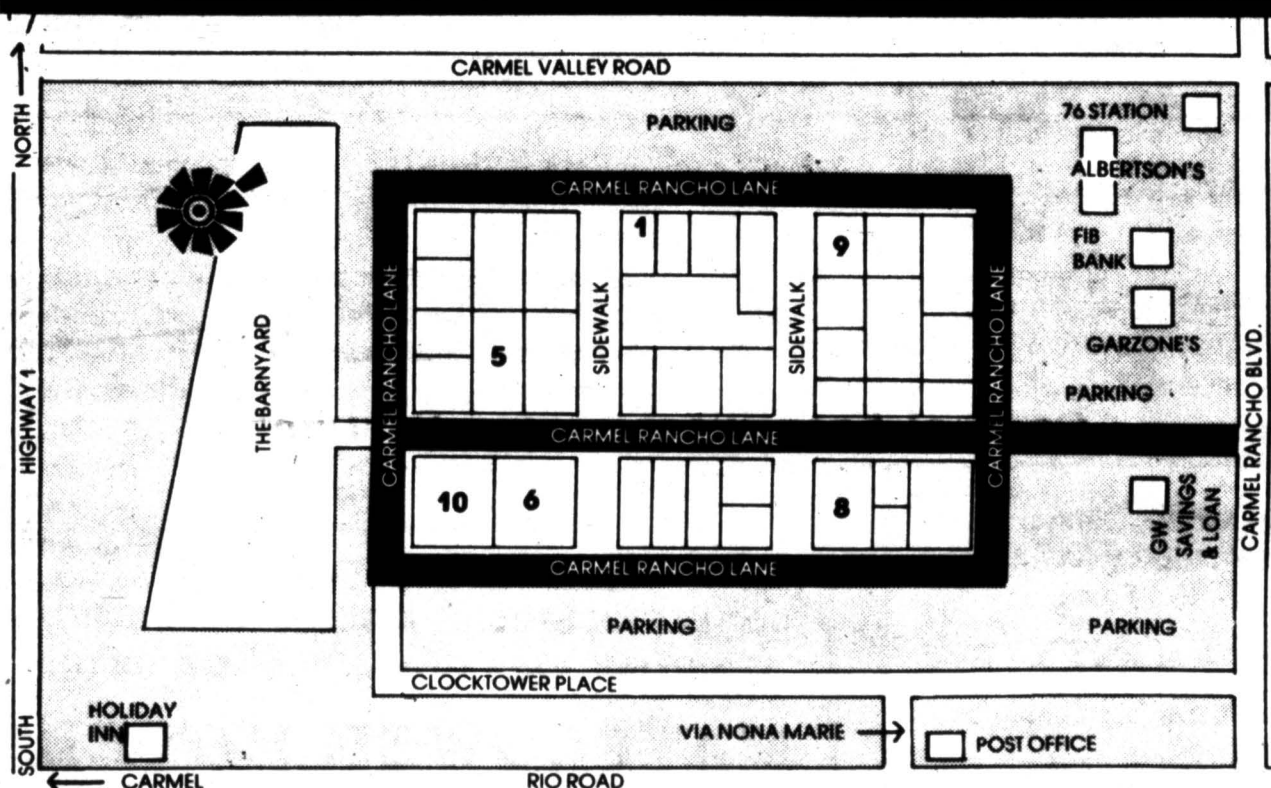

The Monterey County branch is hosting the event and will provide lunch for the participants. Fee for the day, including lunch, is $15 - $20. Anyone interested may participate. Call 678-0632 (Soledad) or 372-6001

CBA fall mixer fun

CARMEL BUSINESS Association worker Debbie Alexander is all smiles posing with Santa Claus during the CBA's fall mixer at the River Inn Resort in Big Sur. Santa Claus made an early appearance and mingled with the crowd for about an hour and passed out candy canes, homemade Christmas cookies and read a poem alerting businesses to the holiday office party packages being offered by the River Inn. About 85 people attended the event, 50 of those travelling to the party on a chartered bus from Carmel. Free wine, beer and hors d'oeuvres were served compliments of the River Inn on the resort's backyard deck overlooking the Big Sur River. (Hanne-Boe Wangoe photo.)

Father Farrell's Wisdom

Treats, not tricks

HALLOWEEN is a Celtic feast older than Christianity. It was adopted by the church and it became All Hallows Eve or the eve of All Saints' Day.

It is a feast of surprises and Almighty God is the greatest trick and treater of all. He has pulled one huge, monumental trick on us. He created us without asking whether we wanted it or not. Throughout our life all kinds of things happen, both good and bad, whether we want them or not.

He promises that if we like the trick, he will treat us in time and eternity. God created us out of love and he demands that we love him and our neighbor in return. These two commands are inseparable. We can not have one without the other.

Almighty God has given men the Halloween capacity to surprise, astonish, delight and entertain us. Take a look at your close friends, your spouse, your family, ask yourself whether you let them surprise, astonish, delight and entertain you the way God designed them to do.

Oh Lord, please give us the child-like capacity to love you and our neighbor. Never allow us to take anyone for granted. You are the ultimate tricker, Oh Lord, so don't forget our treat.

Water board election

Pebble Beach resident Ken Long relies on a rich career in firefighting to augment his knowledge of water.

"I know a lot about water supplies because without it, we couldn't fight fires," retired Los Angeles fire chief Ken Long said.

The Pebble Beach resident said if it looks like the dam is going to take a decade to build, he would support the pursuit of a desalination plant. But if the dam is only a five-year project, desal may not be the way to go.

Long was appointed to the board in June, 1990, replacing the late Bob Russell. Although Russell's term does not expire until 1994, election codes state that appointees must be popularly elected for the final two years of their predecessor's term.

"I think that eventually, we'll have to meter all the wells," Long said when asked about the small well controversy. "It's not a lot of acre footage, but every acre foot counts."

Architect Paul Davis is seeking a second four-year term. He has resided in Monterey for 29 years.

Seeing the difficulty involved in constructing a new major water supply, Davis supported the Seaside well and other interim projects.

Asked about the well's ever-changing opening date, Davis agreed that technology needed for solving a hydrogen sulfide problem is available, but painstaking tests are needed to prove the solution.

Davis takes issue with Fran Farina's stringent position on drought reserve, saying it would be a severe hardship for the construction industry.

"We are on the threshold of major solutions in the next four years and my job is not completed," Davis said. "Therefore, I would like to continue on the homestretch of solving our water problems."

Innovative Kronos Quartet kicks off Performance Carmel series

By JOHN DETRO

THE VISION starts clicking into place on Saturday evening, Nov. 2, at Carmel's Sunset Center.

That's when Kronos Quartet, bright string unit which champions new compositions, kicks off the Performance Carmel contemporary arts series designed with similarly bright zeal by Carmel Cultural Director Brian Donoghue. Curtain at eight o'clock.

Announcing the series at an Oct. 7 press conference, Donoghue said: "I am delighted to add something new to the community. Culture cannot be insular. We cannot look back in 50 years and see a black hole. So we have this vision, this responsibility. Any life will be different after seeing Performance Carmel."

Economic incentives make three series subscription plans more than slightly interesting. Single tickets go for $11 and $13.50. The phone number for brochures and reservations — 624-3996.

The contemporary edge, Brian said back then, would be brought home by "groundbreakers who've been trained in the classics," road-tested quantities who never could be called "off the wall or faddish." He might have had Kronos Quartet in mind as he spoke.

'Culture cannot be insular. We cannot look back in 50 years and see a black hole. So we have this vision, this responsibility.'

The four youngish players — David Harrington (violin), John Sherba (violin), Hank Dutt (viola), Joan Jeanrenaud (cello) — may have fun with the Punk Look while posing for publicity stills. Onstage and in their highly-educated choice of fresh material, they're completely serious. Worldwide audiences agree with them that dedication doesn't have to mean poverty, obscurity, ratty mattresses in urban attics.

Over the past dozen years, Kronos has built an extensive repertoire: Bartok, Webern, Ives, John Cage, Philip Glass, Terry Riley, John Zorn, jazz masters Charles Mingus, Bill Evans, Thelonious Monk. The group commissions work from many cultures (Uganda, Japan, Argentina, Russia, so on). Saturday night's program will feature seven pieces written for them.

The four produce their own, nationally-broadcast radio series, Radio Kronos on National Public Radio. They record exclusively for Elektra/Nonesuch with a compelling crossover

Kronos schedules usual eclectic offerings

KRONOS QUARTET'S Nov. 2 performance at Sunset Center in Carmel will feature the following seven works written especially for the quartet:

- Escalay (Water Wheel) by Hamza El Din
- Cat O' Nine Tails by John Zorn
- Jabiru Dreaming by Peter Sculthorpe
- Beat Boxer by Michael Daugherty
- Phong Vu (Wind, Rain) by Ton-That Tiet
- Spectre by John Oswald
- Already it is Dusk by H. M. Gorecki

Kronos' concert programs, however, often carry the disclaimer, "Contents subject to change." When asked why, quartet violinist David Harrington replied, "We might suddenly come across the most exciting thing we've ever played."

Pacific Grove Art Center opens group exhibition with reception

THE PACIFIC Grove Art Center will present an opening reception for artists, members and friends Friday Nov. 1 from 7 to 9 p.m.

The exhibit, which will run through Dec. 6, will feature an exhibit entitled "Where the Soul is Standing, Stands the Man" by Winfried Veit in the David Henry Gill Gallery, oils and watercolors by Andres Morillo in the Elmarie Dyke Gallery, Classical Miniatures of Afghanistan by Ustad Homayon Etemadi in the Hall Gallery and an exhibit entitled "Berlin, Berlin" by Diane Kaye in the Photography Gallery.

Winfried Veit was born in West Germany and educated at the Art Academy of Karlsruhe, where he graduated as a Master Ceramicist. In Paris he pursued his studies further in painting and in sculpture at the Academy of Beaux Arts. He has had solo exhibitions in France, Germany and Switzerland, as well as in the United States. Recently his work has been shown in Grenoble, Paris, and Lyon and this year he is represented by the Caldwell-Snyder Gallery in San Francisco.

Andres Morillo was born in the Philippines in 1938 and began his studies of art 18 years after he came to the United States in 1960. Morillo's career took a dramatic turn upward upon his introduction to Donald Teague. Perhaps one of the greatest watercolorists of the 20th century, Teague saw the reservoir of talent held by Morillo and took the novice painter under his wing. Stressing the basics—line, color, shape, form, and composition—Teague inspired and guided Morillo's talent for the next ten years. This year Morillo captured first place in watercolor and Best of Show at the Carmel Outdoor Summer Art Festival.

Ustad Homayon Etemadi is Afghanistan's premier miniaturist. He was the court Artist and Keeper of the Royal Library during much of the reign of King Zaher Shah. As a young man, he studied with the illustrious Ustad Ali Ahmad and learned the art of miniature painting through the restoration of many works in the Royal Library. For decades he painted new work in the Herat style fathered by Bihzad whose school so influenced the Safavid and Mogul court painters. Etemadi moved to the United States in 1986 and in 1989 started teaching in effect (in terms of airplay and album-buying consumer age brackets). One of their most popular recent efforts has been their collaboration with Argentinian bandoneon master Astor Piazzolla, Five Tango Sensations. Grammy nominations accrue.

KRONOS QUARTET kicks off Performance Carmel's challenging 1991-92 season at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 2 at Carmel's Sunset Center.

Other performances scheduled for the series includes The Edlos, Spaulding Gray, Tandy Beal, Phillip Glass, Pilobus, and Margie Gillis.

Composer Glass will be the second guest of Performance Carmel — on Nov. 23. "Change comes slowly," Brian Donoghue said, "but we have a mission that's worthwhile." Carmel Cultural Commission reviewed his series plan and agreed.

ARTS & LEISURE

WORKS BY Andres Morillo, a student of renowned watercolorist Donald Teague, will be part of an exhibit opening Friday, Nov. 1 at the Pacific Grove Art Center. The exhibit also features works by Winfried Veit, Ustad Homayon Etemadi and Diane Kaye.

Berkeley in association with the Afghan Cultural Assistance Foundation.

In recognition of Etemadi's exhibit at the Art Center, Robert Darr, founder of the Afghan Cultural Assistance Foundation, will deliver a lecture on Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m. at the art center. He will discuss Afghan culture and background of the arts. The public is invited to attend.

Diane Kaye, a Palo Alto photographer, has had solo exhibitions in Berlin, San Francisco and Palo Alto. She holds a bachelor's degree in German Studies from the University of California Berkeley where she was awarded the Edward Frank Kraft Scholarship prize and earned membership in Phi Beta Kappa. Her show was photographed entirely in Berlin during extended visits 1983 through 1991. It includes traditional street photography, cityscapes made with panorama cameras, and depictions of events and faces during the opening of the Wall.

Deadline for the Carmel Pine Cone is 5 p.m. Fridays

Staff Players Repertory Company will present John Millington Synge's classic piece Deidre of the Sorrows, which opened Oct. 24 at the Indoor Forest Theater in Carmel.

The Irish tale of Deidre and the sons of Usna dates from the Iron Age. The fascinating Celtic mythic stories stretched, at one time, from the Caspian Sea to the west of Ireland.

The production, directed by Marcia Gambrell Hovick and featuring Gail Higginbotham, Ellis Albee, Craig

Dunbar, Darren Allen, Jesse Mahoney, Nancy Lee Methanitis, Loel Shuler, Jim Alter and Donovan Dolan, will run through Nov. 10.

Show times are 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and Sundays at 2:30 p.m.

For more information or reservations, call 624-1531 or the Monterey County Theater Alliance Box Office at 655-8324.

The play is directed by veteran peninsula actor and director Morgan Stock. Gurney is the award-winning writer of Love Letters and The Dining Room.

Cast almost entirely in Big Sur, the 18-character play dramatizes a hoax perpetrated by friends and neighbors of Big Sur author and resident Henry Miller that resulted in national exposure. The incident received worldwide attention as "The Henry Miller Sex Cult Incident" even though it never existed.

The play, written by Ariss 40 years ago, will premiere at the Big Sur Grange Hall. The play will be performed Oct. 29, 30, Nov. 1, 2, 8, 9. All performances are at 8 p.m. except the Oct. 30 show, which will be at 7.

Helen Barker paintings shown at Carmel Art Association gallery

DURING THE month of November through Dec. 4, the Carmel Art Association is presenting an exhibition of paintings by Helen Barker.

Helen Barker has been a member of the Carmel Art Association for a number of years and has had several one-woman shows there. She has owned her own gallery in Carmel for a several years until two years ago when she decided to retire from the gallery business.

The exhibition will feature local scenes and florals in the mediums of oil, watercolor and pastel. The Gallery, open to the public daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., is located on Dolores between Fifth and Sixth in Carmel.

Helen M. Barker comes from a very talented family in both music and art. In her very early years she had a great desire to become a painter. She describes herself as "mostly self-taught." She studied portrait painting briefly from a well-known painter in Los Angeles, Christian Von Schneideu.

Helen Barker's work has been exhibited at the De Young Museum in San Francisco, the Rosicrucian Gallery in San Jose, The Richmond Art Center and other prominent galleries in Northern California.

In Los Angeles her work has been exhibited at the City Hall Tower, The Greek Theater, Ebell Salon of Art, Charles W. Bowers memorial Museum and the Biltmore gallery. In Utah at the annual national exhibition in Springville.

She has received numerous awards on both watercolor and oil. Her paintings are owned by fine art collectors in many parts of the world. The beauty of the area in which she lives has inspired her creativity in a traditional approach to interpret her subjects in the medium of oil, watercolor, acrylic and pastel. Her subjects are florals land and sea, painted on location.

Classical Fab Four

A MUSICAL event of grand and momentous importance will occur Nov. 2 in, of all places, Carmel, not that Carmel hasn't had its share of significant musical offerings (Carmel Music Society's renowned series comes immediately to mind).

On that evening the acclaimed Kronos Quartet will make its debut on the Monterey Peninsula, kicking off the ambitious and challenging Performance Carmel series put together by Brian Donoghue, the city of Carmel's new cultural director (see related story in this issue).

What makes the event so significant lies not only in Kronos' reputation and standing in the realm of modern music, but that it's occurring in Carmel, in the relatively smallish Sunset Center Theater. This is a group that regularly sells out large concert halls from New York to Nagoya, has premiered important new works worldwide and has almost single-handedly redefined the modern "string quartet." They were even referred to as "classical music's own Fab Four," by Rolling Stone magazine.

"Comparisons to The Beatles aren't really out of place," RS explained. "In its approach to music, its lack of pomp, and its visual style, the Kronos Quartet has made a similar impact upon its chosen genre—which the group has already begun to transcend, the same way The Beatles did."

Committed to presenting the works of 20th century composers (many of them for the first time and many commissioned solely for them), Kronos Quartet's eclectic repertoire ranges from Charles Ives and Bela Bartok to Ornette Coleman, Jimi Hendrix and Thelonious Monk.

But Kronos' appearance, as important as it is, serves as an enticing and powerful appetizer to the entire series, kicking off Performance Carmel's own heady and far-reaching repertoire: others on the series include Spalding Gray, Philip Glass, The Edlos, Pilobus, Tandy Beal & Co., and dancer Margue Gillis.

Audience support will foretell whether this series has a future in Carmel; similar packages in past years at Sunset have taken losses. This series will show whether the Monterey Peninsula is ready to take up the challenge, perhaps even making the area a regular stop for world-class artists rather than just a convenient stopover between LA and San Francisco. Here's hoping that Donoghue's artistic vision will be realized for years to come.

For ticket information, call 624-3996.

MORE UPCOMING events with a musical bent on the Monterey Peninsula and outlying areas:

• Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row kicks off its Blue Monday blues night with a rousing SF Bay Area band, Mark Hummel & the Blues Survivors at 9 p.m. Monday, Nov. 4. Cover's a mere $5 at the door.

Other acts scheduled for the next two months is enough to make a blues fan's mouth water in anticipation: boogie-woogie pianist/sax player Deanna Bogart Nov. 11; Jack Mack & the Heart Attack Nov. 13 (so that's a Wednesday, who's counting?); Chicago bluesman Jerry Portnoy Nov. 25; Debbie Davies (Albert Collins' exciting second guitarist), Dec. 2; harp master Charlie Musselwhite on Dec. 9; Roy Rogers & the Delta Rhythm Kings, Dec. 12; Lonnie Brooks Dec. 16 and Jimmy Wood & the Immortals on Dec. 17. In addition, Albert Collins, who was slated to perform on Monday, Nov. 18, may be coming in a day early, on Nov. 17 because of a booking mix-up. Whatever the case, it's an outstanding lineup of blues and boogie. "We have so many blues shows in the next two months we were thinking of calling it "Holiday Blues" of "Holiday Blues Festival," quipped booker Mike Evans. Info on all shows can be had by calling 649-4241.

Playing Doc's on Halloween (Oct. 31), by the way, will be Lovers and Strangers.

Jazz Tides

By John Detrow

Will power

HE'S KNOWN far and wide as a real gentleman. Pacific Grove resident Will Wallace also qualifies as this region's finest jazz photographer.

Kuumbwa Jazz Center in Santa Cruz schedules the opening of a new, all-color Will Wallace show next week (Friday evening 11/8). The exhibit's titled Kind of Blue — after the Miles Davis album — and will have an open-ended run.

Will says he assembled the latest prints after Kuumbwa honcho Tim Jackson requested that he do so. There will be a wine and cheese reception for first-nighters.

"I guess my Miles portrait could be called the centerpiece," Will adds. "And there'll be pictures of Stan Getz, Sheila Jordan, several others."

The very fine Brazilian pianist Eliane Elias will be in the Kuumbwa spotlight on Monday evening (11/4). She's touring now with bassist Jay Anderson and Ken Perowsky on drums.

Upcoming: Billy Harper (11/11), Buster Williams (11/18), Fort Apache Band fronted by conguero and trumpeter Jerry Gonzales (11/25), Ray Brown Big Band (12/2), McCoy Tyner (12/9). Details available via 1-427-2227.

HIDDEN VALLEY Music Seminars marks All Saints Day with a hot item on Friday evening (11/1). Orquesta Gitano will play a three-hour salsa dance beginning at eight o'clock. Tickets ($12.50 each) may be purchased as soon as the box office opens about a half hour before showtime. "Costumes optional," says producer Richard Armbrust. Info: 659-3115.

Orquesta Gitano was formed 11 years ago in Watsonville. It's one of the tightest Latin units you'll hear. Players: Bosco El Gitano, Phil Retamozo, Alicia Rodriguez, Kevin Moore, Simon Marcial, Chris Lopez, Richie Gaud. They feature the compositions of "friend and inspiration" Benjamin (Pilato) Aponte.

Next up in the Fridays at Eight Series — vocalist Weslia Whitfield with husband Mike Greensill at the piano (11/8).

EXCELLENT GUITARIST Bruce Forman kicks off the brand new Sunday afternoon jazz series at Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row (11/3 from 2-6). And

WILL'S WAY—Peninsula jazz photographer Will Wallace has a new all-color show opening early next month (11/8) at Kuumbwa Center of Santa Cruz. Will got this action portrait — Dannie there's no cover charge for the occasion, says series booker and multiple reedman John Cortes.

Bruce records on the Concord Jazz label and has performed at major festivals all over the planet (Monterey included). He has worked with such other heavyweights as Bobby Hutcherson, Stanley Turrentine, Eddie Jefferson, Jimmy Knepper, Bobby Enriquez, Richie Cole, so many others. Downbeat magazine calls him "a prodigious talent" while Leonard Feather labels Bruce "a composer of rare merit."

Kelly and Rosemary Leonard of The Lab explain that each Sunday's guest artist will be backed by the Cortes Quartet — the leader plus brilliant pianist John Donaldson, John Schiflet on bass, drummer Bob Blankenship. Others signed up thus far: Vibist Rob Lautz (11/10), trumpet man Oscar Williams from the Blakey Jazz Messengers (11/17), flutist Tim Jackson (11/24), San Francisco vocalist Kitty Margolis (12/1), guitarist Tim Volpicella who worked with Chet Baker (12/8), Smith and Gail Dobson (12/15).

Richmond — just a few days before the jazz artist was hit by a fatal heart attack. (See Detrow column for more details on the exhibit.)

Those who attend on Sunday will receive special treats. First, Youth Music Monterey will sponsor a free drawing for jazz albums — classic vinyl donated by Fantasy Records. And KAZU Public Radio will tape interviews with audience members for later broadcast over the station's jazz shows. See you there....

(History note: Cortes and Oscar Williams were part of a sextet with the legendary Sonny Simmons and Andrew Hill.)

SIGHT BITES: The Dunes at Spanish Bay will continue its Dinner Jazz format next month (11/7-14) with vocalist/pianist Buddy Connor. He's a jazz and blues stalwart who has worked Monterey Jazz Festival, Mendocino Music Fest, Palm Springs Jazz Festival, nearly countless clubs. No cover charge with dinner; Pebble Beach Gate fees "waived for music lovers."

Tools of learning

INSIDE TIP: Ex-teacher Barbara Vantress has the valuable outpost called Educational Stuff, Inc. This Salinas shop offers learning tools for youngsters — books, developmental toys, flash cards, science projects, puzzles, art supplies, on and on.

Barbara announces the addition of a new series — Weekly Reader. "So far," she says, "this's being well-received by parents and home schoolers."

Samples sent along by her show skills books featuring intelligent prose, sturdy construction, attractive illustrations that'll please young eyes. Barbara says she's carrying three skills groups:

- "With the current emphasis on geography, we chose the series Map Skills for Today. Available for grades one through six. Each contains an answer key. Each workbook covers a comprehensive range of map skills essential for today's children."

- "The Read, Study & Think series will help youngsters build and reinforce skills in three important levels of reading and thinking — reading to find meaning, studying to understand facts, thinking to interpret and relate information. Again, answer keys are provided."

- "And Science Reading Stories cultivates an interest in and develops an understanding of simple science concepts. The workbooks contain high-interest short stories with excellent followup activities, including sections called Science Facts and Word Fun."

Weekly Reader has been publishing high-quality materials since 1928, Barbara informs. More than 100 million copies of each book have been sold throughout the world.

"I particularly like this series," she adds, "because the format is so familiar and comfortable. Each book is priced at a very reasonable $3.95."

Educational Stuff, Inc. offers catalogues at no cost. If you'd like one, simply call 1-422-5044.

ABOUT GARY: I've never really agreed with the general conclusion that On the Road was Jack Kerouac's most important book. Poet Michael McClure was absolutely right when he called Jack's Mexico City Blues a major visionary document; I'd still vote for The Dharma Bums.

That relatively spare novel began presenting the thought of bard and environmentalist Gary Snyder (called Japhy Ryder). Japhy proposed a "rucksack revolution" which today would be called biospheric sense, Gaia Consciousness, earth awareness. Japhy also popularized Zen studies and the woods and mountaineering and serious scholarship as components of a post-hipster lifeway.

Snyder, of course, won a Pulitzer Prize for his collection Turtle Island. His qualities as man and writer have inspired countless conservationists and younger wordslingers. I've always found his published notebooks more useful than the Snyder poetry, but this's a highly subjective and minority view.

Now other opinions come forth via Gary Snyder: Dimensions Of A Life (Sierra Club Books, 464 pages, $30 cloth cover or $17 paper). Editor Jon Halper rides herd over strong, diverse, important voices as they consider Snyder's artistic and social stature.

Herein you'll find novelists Ursula K. Le Guin,

Wendell Berry, Jim Dodge — poets Allen Ginsberg, McClure, Philip Whalen — political and environmental figures Dan Ellsberg and Dave Foreman — actor Peter Coyote, musician Paul Winter. And the Zen scholar Robert Aitken.

Snyder deserves and gets more than a cut-and-paste job: these pieces never have appeared elsewhere. If you care that much about the individual and his outreach, this volume's worth having.

(Snyder, Allen, McClure and Phil Whalen were on the bill at the historic Gallery Six poetry reading in San Francisco's North Beach. This event officially kicked off the long-brewing Beat Renaissance.)

Relationship between art, physics explored in Leonard Shlain book

MONDAY, NOV. 4. at 7 p.m., Visions in Space, Time and Light, at the prominent San Francisco physician Leonard M. Shlain will discuss and sign his new book Art & Physics: Parallel at the Thunderbird Bookshop in The Barnyard, Carmel. The book is a seamless integration of the romance of art and the drama of science, written as a lively colorful chronicle centering around the concepts of space, time, and light.

The book's principle thesis is that the revolutionary artist, using image and metaphor, introduces a new way to see the world, while the visionary physicist, using number and equation, formulates a new way to think about the world. It is the artist's vision, though, that prefigures the scientist's later discovery. Shlain maintains, for example, that Giotto's and Alberti's discovery of perspective preceded Galileo's and Newton's mechanics.

For the past 10 years, Dr. Shlain has lectured widely on the connection between art and science. He has spoken at conferences sponsored by such prominent organizations as San Francisco's Pacific Presbyterian Medical Center, the Esalen Institute, and the Saybrook Society. He practices medicine in San Francisco and lives in Mill Valley.

Robert Byers' photos exhibit 'passionate austerity'

By JOHN DETRO

THE FINE black/white images of Carmel Valley's Robert Byers, on view at the Center for Photographic Art in Sunset Center through Nov. 15, demonstrate the great force of stillness and meditative vision.

One comes away from this show with words from the writer and monk Thomas Merton stirred up by most of what one has absorbed there: "The accuracy that true mysticism needs. . . . Byers studied with Ansel Adams, Wynn Bullock, Brett Weston. He upholds their traditions — classic composition, timelessness, clarity, great affection and dignity accorded the subject — and seeks extension. "In working with the camera," he says, "I want to do something more than make a 'record photograph.' I want to arouse a reaction in the observer of the photograph similar to that felt by me which prompted the exposure."

This essentially poetic premise results in an egalitarianism of imagery — the Parisian doorway and British Columbian aspens reverberate with the same mystery and greatness as the old, old French basilica. There's nothing strained here, nor superimposed from an arbitrary posture. That's how woken individuals size up the physical world (Godhead in mop handle, redwoods, rat's scuttle, royal crown). The Merton quote fits.

Anyone who thinks this lifeway dull need only internalize the utterly simple Byers photographs of reeds along Young's River (Oregon). How stark, delicate, pure, complete — and what passionate austerity. The spirit within those scenes gives the viewer a lift which says the man behind the camera met his stated goal.

One three-photo series left this observer feeling manipulated. After the lily pads and ferns and Mono Lake snowscapes, came the Rolls Royce grille. . . gears and cogs at the Swiss

'Comic release' as a key to quality of life explored in new workshop

By JOHN DETRO

THE OLD phrase "just for laughs" today emerges locally as a key to multi-leveled health — bodily, mental, commercial.

In fact, says Ina Hillebrandt of Carmel, humor can be a powerful tool in correcting sexual harassment and other gender-based conflicts.

"With men and women," Ina believes, "there's a lot of anger on both sides. It's very confusing to be either sex. If a woman's funny and knows who she is, she doesn't demean herself in the least. Humor will help her defuse tense moments and set boundaries that are coalescing — that draw people together rather than push them apart."

After these sentences settle, she whips from her carrybag a blue windup pig and sends it grunting and clowning across the floor. Time out for belly-deep guffaws.

Ina and colleague Carol Huntington of Pacific Grove have packed rich professionalism into their public series entitled The Unworkshops: Comic Release. Sessions will be held the first three Wednesday evenings in November and December (7-9 o'clock) at Whole Body Center near Carmel's Barnyard. Site address — 3855 Via Nona Marie. Registration's limited; call 626-3917 if you wish a cost breakdown and other details.

For two decades, Hillebrandt has been a facilitator in serious areas — grief groups, weight control, families of alcoholics, business problem-solving with clients like Visa and Citycorp. When she was a strategic planner at Manhattan's League of American Theaters and Producers, money people who heard Ina's reports said she really shouldn't hide her off-the-wall streak. "I was delighted to hear that my improvisational characterizations made hard data much more palatable. And I found that humor had creative effects in all kinds of formal situations."

Carol's development director at KAZU Public Radio. Her pledge drive air-time often expands into zany flights. Former executive producer of Students for Self-Esteem in Santa Barbara, she forces Ina to find just the right word. "I guess I'd call Carol — yes, nutsoid would be completely accurate. She's the Jonathan Winters type, changing roles within instants. I'm more like Gracie Allen. I love people who are discovering their own witty ways; I love to draw them out."

After they met over the fundraiser telephones at KAZU, Ina and Carol decided that really valuable humor workshops would be about human empowerment. "Businesswise," Hillebrandt says, "laughter frees up everyone and increases productivity while sharpening teamwork. The editor Norman Cousins wrote books about curing himself of dread diseases by 'internal jogging' — he'd watch funny movies. I've worked with widows and widowers, and humor's a wonderful way to get through the pain and put things in perspective. Anyone who's life. So the two will be holding public workshops on "comic release." See story for full details. (Flossie Stowell photo.)

hurting can benefit (from their series). And, you know, customers remember the retailer who's funny."

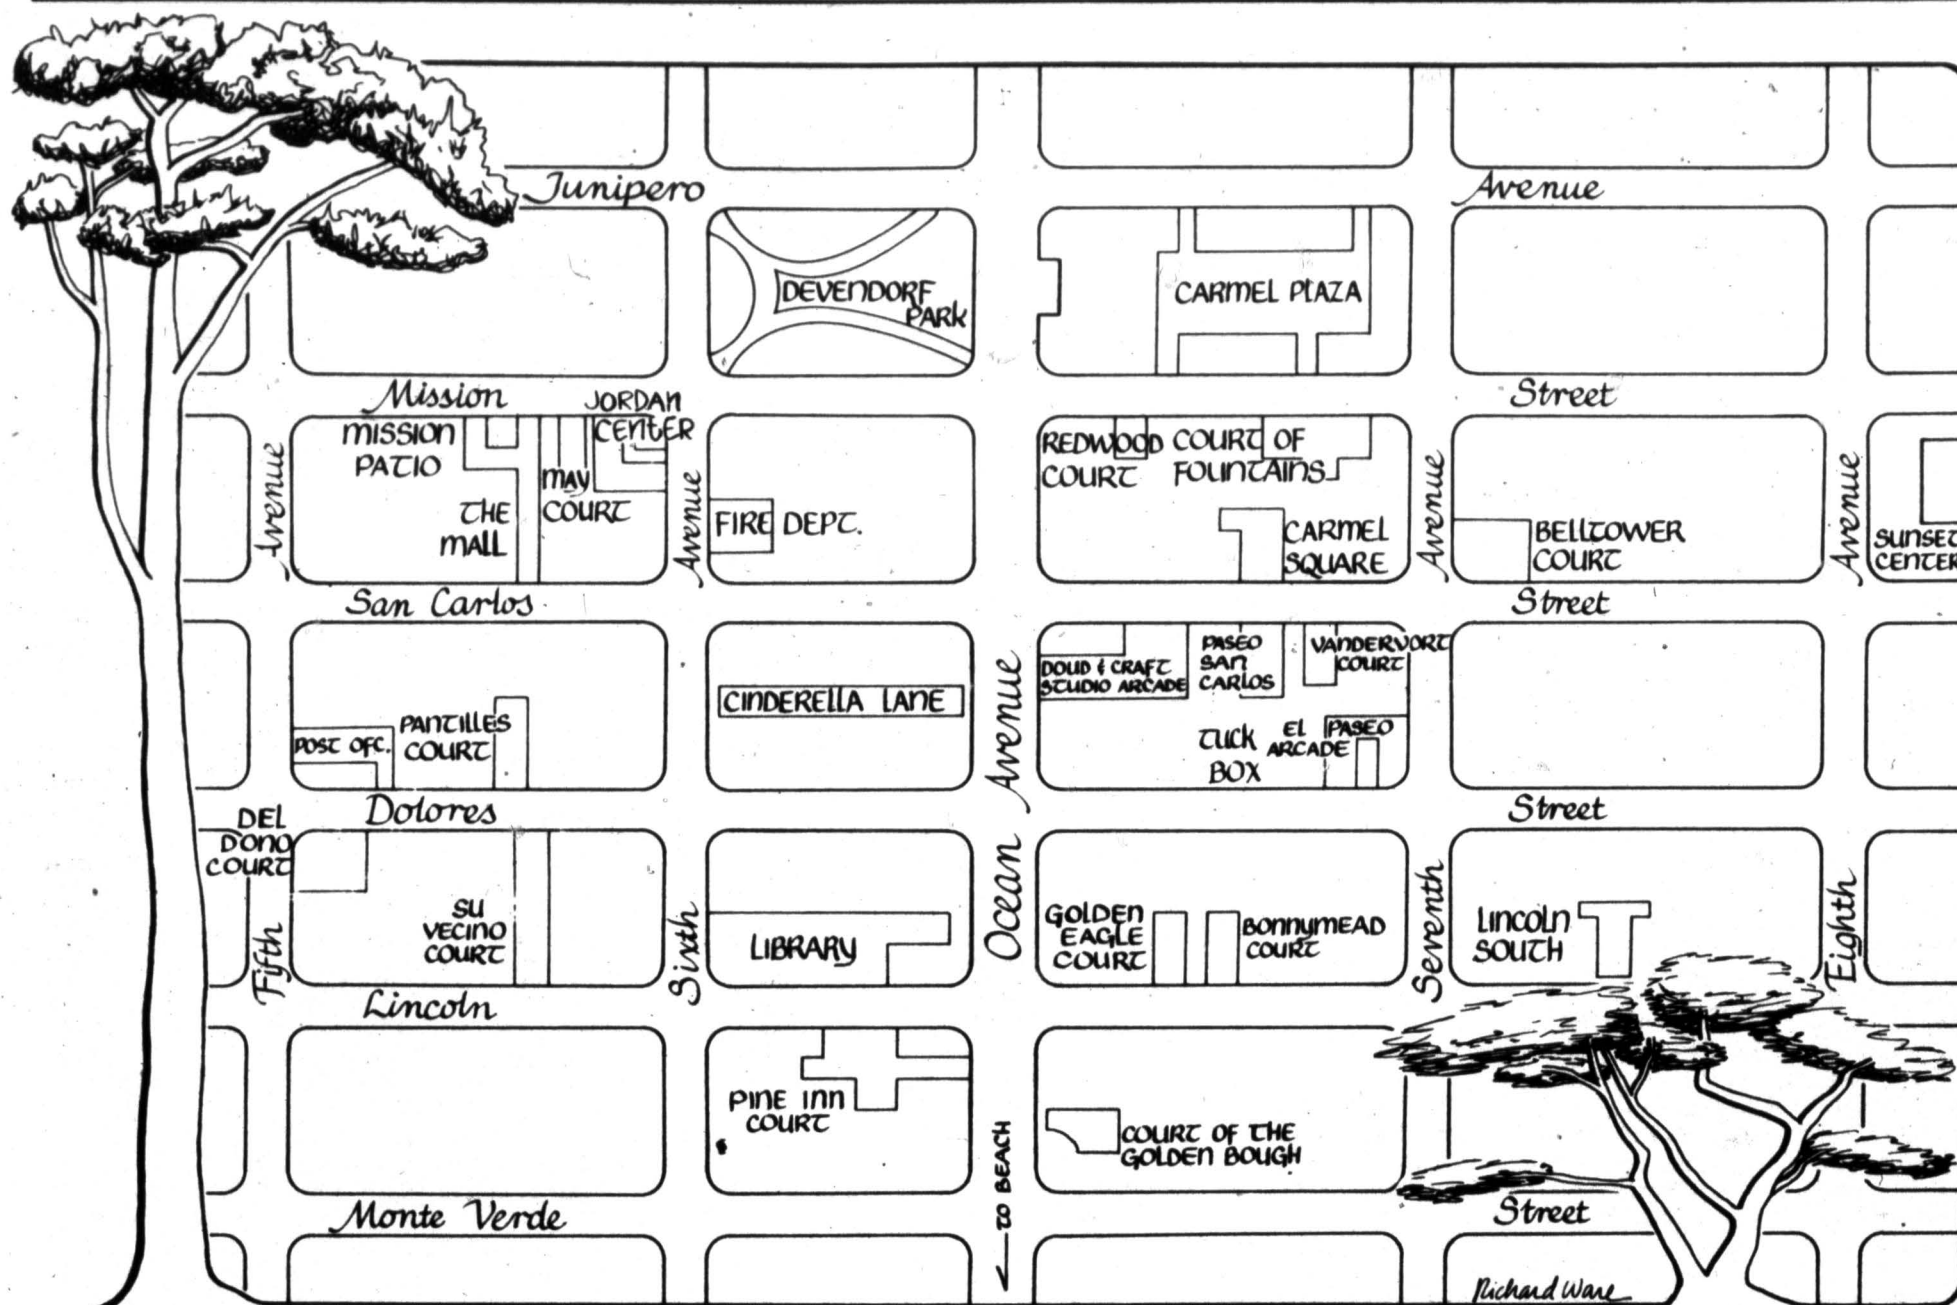

Written descriptions of the workshops say participants will revitalize, stay healthy, "see molehills instead of mountains," enhance relationships, meet others who want to laugh more often — and just have fun. "When you're stewing over a problem," the copy declares, "a laugh break relieves the tension and puts you in a different, more receptive and creative frame of mind. How can you stay mad at someone who just put on a clown nose?"

Ina punches a plastic fixture on her keychain and drops the whole jangle into her purse. From those depths come a low, wild scream.

"We wish for people the lightness and better balance," she says. "Besides, widespread laughter gives us more folks to play with."

CONSOLIDATED PROCEEDINGS

DATE: November 22, 1991
TIME: 10:00 a.m.
JUDGE: Arthur S. Weissbrodt
Quadrangle Building
Suite 214
1000 S. Main Street

NOTICE OF HEARING ON MOTION FOR AUTHORIZATION TO SELL ASSET OF THE ESTATE BY AUCTION AND PAY AUCTIONEERS COMMISSION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on November 22, 1991, at 10:00 a.m., in the Courtroom of the Honorable Arthur S. Weissbrodt, United States Bankruptcy Judge, Quadrangle Building, Suite 214, 1000 S. Main Street, Salinas, California, Paul Andrew, the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee, will move the court for an order authorizing him to sell asset of the estate by auction and pay auctioneers commission. The asset of the consolidated estates is improved real property commonly known as 9 Partners Lane, Millbrook, New York. It is also commonly referred to as the Carnegie Mansion. This notice is based upon the Motion for Authorization to Sell Asset of the Estate by Auction and Pay Auctioneers Commission ("Motion"), filed concurrently herewith, and upon all other records, papers and documents on file in this case, and upon such other matter, oral or documentary as may be presented at the hearing on the Motion. In support of the Motion, the trustee represents as follows:

1. This case was filed by Persephone Compte in 1983. Paul Andrew was appointed trustee pursuant to order of the court made on or about April 24, 1984. In 1988, the two cases were substantially consolidated. 2. The remaining unliquidated asset of the consolidated estates consist of certain improved real property commonly known as 9 Partners Lane, Millbrook, New York. It is also commonly referred to as the Carnegie Mansion. The Carnegie Mansion contains 14 bedrooms, 10 bathrooms (exclusive of servants quarters), and is approximately 12,173 square feet. 3. In 1985, the Carnegie Mansion was sold to Historic Structures Limited. The purchaser thereafter defaulted on its mortgage obligation to the estate. Historic Structures ultimately became a debtor in the chapter 11 case in the Central District of California. On March 4, 1988 and on May 6, 1988, orders were entered in the respective bankruptcy estates whereby title to the Carnegie Mansion was reacquired by the Compte estates. 4. On June 1, 1988, the trustee applied to the court to employ a real estate broker to sell the Carnegie Mansion. Around that time, the Carnegie Mansion was appraised with a fair market value in the range of $550 - $615,000. 5. In May 1989, an offer was received from Christine Hjelleset to purchase the Carnegie Mansion for $600,000 cash. Court approval of this sale was obtained, however Hjelleset's $5,000 binder was returned due to insufficient funds. The sale to Hjelleset was never consummated. 6. In the fall of 1989, the trustee received three additional inquiries concerning purchasing the Carnegie Mansion. The most substantial was an offer by William D'Andrea. D'Andrea offered to acquire the Carnegie Mansion for an all cash price in the amount of $515,000.00. The trustee accepted D'Andrea's offer and in December 1989, the bankruptcy court approved the terms of sale to D'Andrea. 7. However, D'Andrea has never performed on his purchase contract. After many months of delay and procrastination by D'Andrea, the trustee finally filed an adversary proceeding against D'Andrea seeking declaratory relief and damages. 8. Subsequently, D'Andrea stipulated that the trustee may sell the Carnegie Mansion, indicating that he had no interest in completing the transaction. 9. A bifurcated trial was held in which D'Andrea was found to have breached the contract. At some future time, the amount of damages owed to the estate by D'Andrea will be ascertained. 10. In the meantime, the trustee had to keep the Carnegie Mansion off the market until it was clear that D'Andrea was not going to purchase it. Since obtaining D'Andrea's stipulation that the trustee was free to sell the mansion, the trustee has received two offers. Both offers, however, were in the $100,000 price range, a price that the trustee is reluctant to accept at this point and time. 11. Over the course of the summer of 1991, the trustee has negotiated with various creditors of the estate in an effort to arrive at some sort of practical solution so that the estate may be liquidated and ultimately a distribution made to the creditors. However, to date, no satisfactory proposal has been forthcoming.

12. The trustee believes that in some respects the Carnegie Mansion is a "white elephant" property. The trustee is also informed and believes that the real estate market in the New England area has collapsed dramatically in the last two years. Mortgage financing for a project such as the acquisition of the Carnegie Mansion is, the trustee is informed and believes, very difficult to obtain. 13. In the meantime, the cost to the estate to carry the mansion is consuming all of the available cash in the estate. The carrying costs include property taxes, liability insurance and security costs. 14. Therefore, the trustee, in his best business judgment, has determined that the best course of action is to auction the Carnegie Mansion to the best and highest bidder as soon as practical. Trustee intends to employ an experienced auctioneer in the State of New York and pay the standard auctioneers commission. By this motion, the Trustee seeks court authorization to interview and immediately retain an auctioneer without further order of the court. 15. At an auction, it is impossible to determine what actual price will be obtained for the Carnegie Mansion. The trustee proposes to set a minimum bid of $200,000 in the hopes of attracting as much interest in the mansion as possible. 16. The total amount of the unsecured claims in the estate is approximately $313,000.00, exclusive of interest. The trustee is aware that selling the Carnegie Mansion by auction may not result in enough cash to pay all unsecured creditors in full. However, the trustee has determined that the likelihood of selling the property through the ordinary marketing channels before the winter is unlikely and that the expenses of carrying the property for another year are prohibitive. Creditors and other parties in interest having questions may also contact counsel for the Trustee, John A. Minority students question why CHS is unable to integrate staff

By FRANK MELICIA

A handful of CHS minority students are wondering how they are supposed to succeed in life when they have no faculty role models in the school.

As CHS student body slowly intergrates, the faculty remains predominately white, according California Basic Educational Data System. Statistics show that only 2 percent of CUSD's 128 professional staff is minority.

These statistics suggest that CUSD is far below the state averages 85 percent. Outside blue color work the make up of the state's school systems have been predominately white.

"It would be much easier for us to achieve because we would finally have someone pushing us really hard," RJ Powell CHS sophomore said.

"It doesn't matter what race or color the staff members are as long as they do the job and they do the job well: like our teachers do," Nathan Chow CHS senior said.

The problem may not be that the district is not hiring minorities the problem may be that no minorities are applying for the jobs that are available.

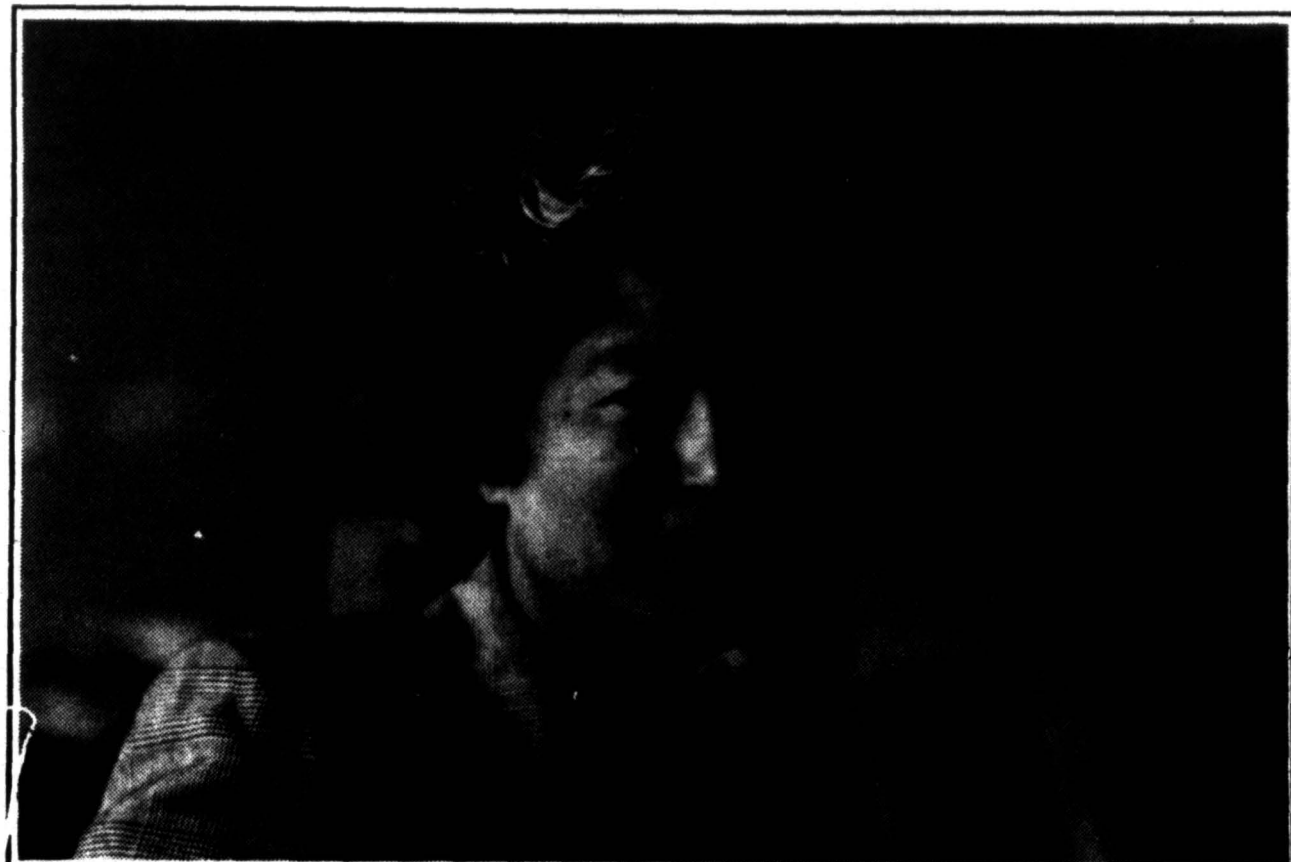

"Minorities that I have taught in the past, who have gone off to college and done well, generally have avoided the teaching profession because of the lack of good publicity. They would rather go into a more lucrative profession such as business or law," Patricia Condren, chair person of CUSD Board of Trustees said.

Another problem people have with the district is that the cost of living in the area is so high that it makes it virtually impossible to move to the area unless you are well off or you have a job that will put you well off.

"I believe that the rich are making it so hard for any minorities to live here that eventually there will be no minorities, and the area will be completely sheltered," said CHS Principal Marie Ishida. "Eventually it will break us as a society."

Carmel High currently has one staff member that is a minority, Ishida.

"What the important thing is, is that the students get the chance to experience different cultures and teaching styles. With CHS having no minority teachers they (the students) are closed off to the real world, where everyone, all races, live and work together," Jon

Nunnemaker MHS junior said.

Living and working together doesn't necessarily apply with CHS. More than three-fourths of the faculty live outside Carmel. And some, including Ishida, live in Santa Cruz.

As students look around they see many different people living many different lives, but for minorities they look around and see people living "the good life."

As long as no minority teachers come to CHS, the minorities will never come out of the stereotype of being the lower class.

College applications force students to deal with mega-stress

By NATHAN CHOW

It is that time of year again, when seniors tear out their hair over college applications. To enter college, the average senior must go through a tremendous obstacle course of forms and interviews. A wise person once said, "no pain, no gain."

According to last year's C.A.P. tests, CHS ranks as one of the best high schools in a state with hundreds, if not thousands, of high schools. This fact has been reflected in the number of CHS students that go on to higher education. Although the selection of courses at CHS is rather minute, due to its small size, CHS has remained a very competitive school for college admissions.

"CHS is an excellent public high school," said counselor Lynn Archer. "Although our school is too small for many A.P. (advanced placement) and honors courses, colleges look to see if the student has chosen the most rigorous academic courses that a high school has to offer."

Each year, CHS sends many students to numerous colleges throughout the nation. These colleges include many prestigious private universities like Harvard, Stanford, and Yale and many excellent public universities like UC Berkeley and UCLA. Compared to many larger high schools, the CHS acceptance rate has been really high.

There are many reasons for this high rate of acceptance. The first, and foremost, is the kind of students CHS attract. Students come from many different cities just to attend the more 'limited curriculum at CHS. They come from Monterey, Castroville, and even further.

Students like senior John Pak has to drive 40 miles each day just to attend CHS. CHS, when compared with many private schools around the area (York, RLS, eg.), is actually a better school in terms of teaching quality, and student friendliness.

"I think that the teachers here have better spirit toward everything," said senior Jeremy Buck.

Students at CHS are simply more motivated towards the educational process. Counselors in the counseling office feel that the success of students come from within themselves. That is why the motto for the counseling office is: "We help students help themselves."

Colleges look for students that have used all that CHS has to offer," said Archer. "Many students at CHS do that by taking A.P. courses and accelerated courses."

The staff and faculty at CHS is another reason for the success of the students. The counseling office offers many services to students. It provides vital information on a student's progress and copes with the numerous personality academic problems that occur in the student body.

The faculty at CHS is devoted to the physical and spiritual progress of the students. The faculty includes many teachers that have won state awards for their excellence in teaching. The faculty also devote a large block of their spare time into their pupils through tutoring and homework corrections. Teachers like John Durein of the math department and Bob Walch of the English department devote much of their free period and after-school time to the benefit of students with questions and problems.

"I think the teachers at CHS are excellent," said senior Danny Gonzales. "Teachers like Mr. Kennedy are superb in that they use extra time to answer your questions."

"I think he's (Durein) reached the epitome of teaching," said senior Patrick Whitmarsh. "He spends a lot of extra time helping students."

The dedication of the faculty and the staff is little consolation to the seniors working on their college applications right now.

"It's a pain in the butt," said senior Matt Connelly. "But it's something that has to be done. All that paperwork adds more trouble to an already hectic life."

"It's necessary," said senior Chris Bolton. "It's an awful lot of trouble though."

"I think it's time consuming," said senior John Pak.

"It sucks," said senior Shelley Gesecki.

There are some succor for frustrated students from the counseling office and the teachers, in the form of an easy 10-step guideline (see table).

College planning is an important part of a high school student's life. A time consuming and irritating part, but a necessary part. If you, when asked about college, say what senior Chad Christenson says, you better get started on your forms.

"I have no idea," said senior Chad Christenson. "I haven't done anything yet. How would I know?"

Ten-step guideline for college applications

by The Counseling Office with little comments

by Nathan Chow

1. TELL THE TRUTH

Since all acceptance are conditional, it is important to tell the truth on the self-report. Acceptance can be rescinded if there is a discrepancy between self-report and the transcript.

2. VISIT CAMPUSES TO SEE

It is a good idea to visit the schools you intend to apply to. While there, attend classes, visit dorms, and talk with students and teachers. Know your own personality and choose accordingly.

3. DON'T SLACK OFF SECOND SEMESTER

It is not a good idea to slack off second semester. Keep up the grades and inform schools of any changes in your schedule or you'll be sorry when your acceptance gets rescinded.

4. READ THE APPLICATION CAREFULLY

If you snooze, you lose. It is a good idea to read the instructions a couple of times, for you might mis-interpret it easily.

5. WRITE A GOOD ESSAY

The essay is the gateway for the application reader to see -our personality. It is a good idea to write a truthful essay that brings out your many endearing qualities. (nothing perverted please...)

6. MAKE SURE YOU'VE TAKEN ALL THE NECESSARY TESTS

Self-explanatory, I hope.

7. LISTEN TO THE SCHOOL BULLETIN

The bulletin announces the arrival of many college representatives. They are a good source of information since they represent the college.

8. COLLEGE NIGHT, NOV. 7

The place to be. Be there. If you need further help choosing the right college for you, or have questions about a certain college, you should attend college night.

9. CAREER CENTER, AN INFORMATION SOURCE

If you have any questions at all, go to the counselors or the career center to get answers. The career center has many parent volunteers that know the system and the process.

10. NO STRESS

This is a time of many emotions that may be conflicting. Some of us want to leave now, some would like to stay forever. We feel excited at the prospect of college, yet we fear the actual arrival. If you have any problems at all, there are counselors to help you, and peer-counselors if you prefer. This is a time of conflicting feelings, and you don't have to suffer alone. You will feel better if you talk to someone who is experienced, and caring.

Helping students cope with grief

By KELLI CAYLOR

Since the loss of Robert Johnston earlier this month, grief counseling has been helping many students.

Grief counseling is for anyone who has experienced any loss through death, loss of a job, or loss of a mate or parent.

"We are always here to talk about any major losses in life," said Lynn Archer, counselor at CHS.

Hospice of the Central Coast in Carmel Valley is an organization that assists terminally ill patients cope with the realities of death. It also deals with the families that experience the grief from the loss of loved ones.

The two-day training that counselors undergo every year is handled by the Grief Busters, a part of HOSPICE.

Volunteers from Hospice have been meeting in the grief room along with grief counselors to talk to students and to listen.

The grieving process is made up of three stages: shock and denial; suffering and disorganization; acceptance and reorganization.

There is no absolute time, sequence or means of accelerating movement through the stages, according to Grief Busters.

"We give the students a mini instruction of the grieving process," said Archer.

Grief counseling is mostly one to one, helping the students get through their grief.

"We listen to what they are feeling, and help them hear what they are saying," Archer said.

Longer lunch period being bandied about

By ANDREW MARTIN

ASB has proposed a 10-minute longer lunch hour, which would extend the school day to 3 P.M.

There are, however, mixed feelings about this proposal in the student body.

"It would give me more time to actually chew my food," said Junior Jason Lindgren.

The ASB proposed a longer lunch hour in an effort to give people who have passes more time to be off campus.

"I think if we have a longer lunch I feel the kids will still be late," said Junior Cory Louterbach.

The major thing that is holding back the 10-minute lunch hour is that some people think that it will take the Middle School kids longer to make their bus connection at CHS. There is also some concern over the after school practice schedule.

"I think it would set things of balance. Sports after school would need to be delayed even more. We do need a longer lunch but this isn't the solution," Junior Erin Kraft.

But Coach Craig Johnston said that it would not throw the practice schedule off in any way.

The longer lunch may decrease the amount of sixth period tardies but it would also encourage students who do have off-

It's simple: Drinking and driving don't mix

By LISA ANTUZZI

Due to the recent death of a Robert Johnston student, students have become more aware of the effects of drinking and driving.

Subsequently many students would like to try and make a difference to help prevent tragedies like this from ever happening again.

So with the backing of the administration, a group of students, would like to start a program called Safe Rides, where students would be available to provide a safe ride home to fellow classmates who may not be capable of driving.

The administration, however, still stands strong behind its belief that students should not be drinking at all and they should realize that when they do drink they are committing an illegal act.

To be sure, the school does not have the answers to the terrible problem of alcohol/drug abuse by young people.

By working together, perhaps we can come up with some ideas and solutions to help not only students and parents as well, said CHS Principal Marie Ishida.

CHS used to have a program like this a couple of years ago, but it was discontinued because not enough people were calling in for a ride.

Safe Rides used to have a main telephone number that people could call when they needed a ride and then from that they would send out volunteer to go get them.

Most students are in support of starting this program, and they feel that it would help prevent a drunken driving accident from happening again.

"I think it's a good idea," says Junior Eric Everman.

"I feel that this program should have been started a long time ago, and it shouldn't have taken a tragic accident to make us realize this," said Senior Lee Walton.

Although students are mad that this has not been started earlier, for the most part they feel it's better late than never.

Phenom Tisha Satow makes splash at CHS

By LANCE THOMPSON

Winning has become a tradition for the CHS girls swimming/diving team and sophomore Tisha Satow is following it to a tee.

Satow qualified for the Central Coast Section as a freshman and took fourth in both the 50 free and 100 free events.

She looks forward to more success for both herself and the team this year.

"We have a real good chance this year because we have a real strong group," says Satow.

Swimmers and coaches alike admire Satow's ability to not only get the job done, but to enjoy herself as well.

"She works hard, has fun, but she gets the job done," says Bruce Cates, padre swim coach. "Tisha is an excellent swimmer and a lot of fun; she is probably the best swimmer I have ever gotten to coach."

"She is a model for all of us," says senior Cristin Clack.

Although much of Satow's success is from natural talent, most of her winnings are a product of hard work.

"I practice four hours at the Salinas Aquatic pool and our school team practices about an hour and a half," says the dedicated swimmer.

Aside from the Padre swimming/diving team, Satow also competes for the Salinas Valley Aquatic Club.

"One of her attributes is the influence of a lot of coaches," explains Cates.

But despite her winning record, Satow keeps a modest view of her future.

"I want to swim in college, but the Olympic level is just too much for me," she says.

The Padres are undefeated and on route to a league championship.

German student wins over local family

By HEATHER EAGLE

Wolfram is a 16-year-old student from Leipzig, Germany who is on a year program with Youth For Understanding. He is staying with the Krasnow family: Donna, and her husband, Gary, daughter Stephanie and son Lee.

Wolfram says that life here is almost the same as in Germany. People have the same interests in sports such as tennis and soccer. Football is not a common sport as it is here yet soccer is as important.

In his spare time he enjoys his computer and playing soccer.

When asked why he chose USA he said, "It is the most interesting country I could chose."

Wolfram arrived in Carmel in early August and will return to Germany in mid-July.

"You get a new perspective of things," says Krasnow of the experience. "My son, Lee, and Wolfram shared a room in the beginning, but after a while they had a room built in the garage for Wolfram."

"It's nice to have another brother to pick on," says Stephanie Krasnow.

Donna Krasnow is a speaker for

"If anyone is interested in having an international experience, talk to me, there are a lot of programs."

ASB exerts effort for quality campus

By ARYN HARRIS

The ASB has been getting questionable reviews on its ability to do what is right for the students they represent.

"The ASB is working really hard this year to make activities for the students," said Johanne Bevilacqua A.S.B. secretary.

One major event for A.S.B. this year has been the homecoming game and all the events surrounding it. Although these events just seem to come together and happen, it really takes extensive planning on the part of the A.S.B.

"Unfortunately the majority of the students are not aware of what their elected representatives are doing these students leaders are serious about very serious matters. They are making a positive impact on the school and the community and for the most part are worthy of their peers support and respect," said activities director Chad Lincoln.

Homecoming started out with Day on the Green where student musicians showed their school how talented they are and A.S.B. put on a barbecue. Saturday was the traditional Homecoming dance where the East Coast disc jockey company (Wild Video Dance Party) was well received.

Monday thru Friday was spirit week starting with Tug of War where the Seniors dominated the competition. On Tuesday the school went back in time to the 60s for hippie day. Wednesday the Junior class picked up some spirit point when they come in first in the trike race.

Friday the school awaited the announcement of the Homecoming court where princes and princesses received their crowns. Freshman: Somer Harrold and Cuan McComb Sophomores: Lauren Johnson and Nate Mobissette Juniors: Kristan Snyder and Donovan McComb Seniors: Anne Marie Jones and Dominic Petrocelli and Sarah Doran and David Beerman and King Kelly Starrett and Queen Jen Cowles took their throne at the rally to honor the great job the football team is doing.

CHS verses the Palma Chieftens football game will conclude the events. With a halftime parade of the Homecoming Court and the class floats.

"The A.S.B. is doing a great job this year they are really a positive group of kids and they want to please the masses," said attendance secretary Ann Berry.

A lot of planning, publicizing, organizing, telephone calls, errands, bulletin messages, ordering and decorating goes into this. Most of all its time and effort though. This whole Homecoming event the A.S.B. deals with serious matters.

Students gear for spring desert trip

By JEANNINE TRUDEAU

Many students at CHS are on a waiting list to go on the annual desert trip during their spring break. Students will visit the Joshua Tree Monument and the park's visitor center of natural history. The students are in the Joshua park for four days. The annual desert trip has been annual since 1979.

Next they will travel to Anza Borrego where they will stay for the next two days and visit the Palm Canyon campground. At Palm canyon students hike and then go visit the park's visitor center. In the center students learn the local biology life by either talking to rangers or viewing slide shows.

The trip lasts for eight days during spring break. Spring break is April 13-17-1992.

Students almost always come back with enthusiasm. Some students absolutely rave about the trip with a cheerful glow.

Aimee Reeder a junior went her on the trip sophomore year. "It got me more environmentally aware to gain self confidence and to make a difference," said Reeder.

"The desert trip is an experience that no one can afford to miss," said Drew Teti. "It gives you the vision to for once see life and to enjoy it."

Senior Katie Winslow said, "I came back not only a different person but a improved person."

Fun-filled Day on the Green

By PAUL MURPHY

The sun beat down during the recent Day On The Green as students listened to the sounds of two CHS bands.

Eclipse, with vocals sung by Junior Lance Thompson, guitars by Senior Lee Walton, bass by Senior Andrew Kylander-Clark and drums by Senior Jesse Ososki, started the day off with "Sunshine of Your Love", originally performed by Cream, and then kicked off their own version of the Jimi Hendrix cover of Boy Dylan's classic "All Along the Watchtower."

After that session of two hot jams, Thompson gave up the mic to Kylander-Clark, who sang his own rendition of The Troggs "Wild Thing."

After a brief intermission, CHS band Still Time strolled onto the grass with their shirts off and their minds set on playing music. Vocals and guitars are by Senior Mark Roth, additional guitars are by Sophomore Sam Melton, Bass by Sophomore Nate Modisette and drums by Junior Brian Sarkin.

Still Time played originals "Misty Castle", "Fear of Despair, Crying Amplifier, What's Wrong With Me?", and Dylan's Knocking on Heaven's Door." Originals are written by Roth.

"But I help a little," said Sarkin.

Still Time has been playing together for more than a year now, but still believe that they can improve.

"We played better than last year, but could have played better," said Sarkin immediately after the performance.

The Day on the Green was a great success, according to band member, Mark Roth. "It was the most fun we ever had."

The other two band members agreed with Roth.

"Yeah, it was," Melton and Modisette said in unison.

Eclipse band members were satisfied with the way they played, too. "We had a lot of fun. With a little more hard work we will have a decent band," said Thompson.

I liked it," Ososki said jokingly. "But where was the mosh pit and where were the groupies?"

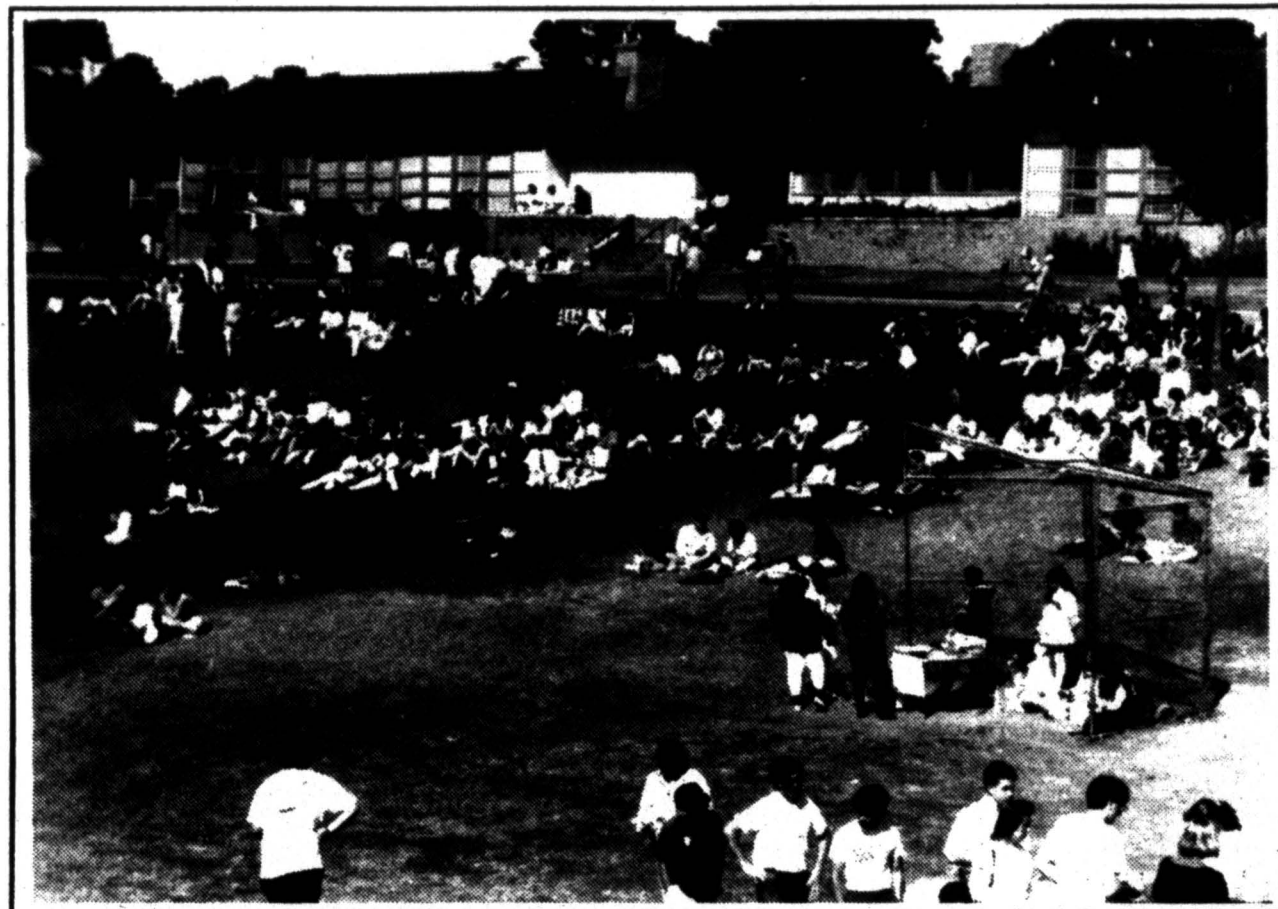

Students at CHS enjoyed the live music very much.

"It tickled my fancy. All the musicians that played were very skilled," said Junior Daniel Higgins.

"An activity at lunch where the whole school can come together is positive in my view," said Senior Christopher Cannon.

The Day on the Green at CHS broke the tedium of going to classes, going to lunch, then going to more classes.

"We should have more of it (live music at lunchtime)," said Junior Wendy-Sue Perkins.

CHS students enjoyed a Day on the Green because it allowed them time to visit friends, have lunch and take in some good tunes. (Ben Fahrner photo.)

Padre coaches laud Chris Bobb's commendable 'workhorse' ethic

By JAMES GENONE

When CHS coaches and players talk about Chris Bobb they have only good things to say.

After three years of varsity football both here and at Gardena High School in Los Angeles, "Bobbie," as his friends like to call him, has become a force for the Padre football team.

Chris, who plays both ways, has been a key to the Padres recent success.

"He's a very gifted athlete," says Padre head Coach Craig Johnston.

"He's a very versatile player, a key on both offense and defense, and a great working both on and off the field.

"He has an attitude that every young man should have," says Ables.

In his spare time Bobb likes to spend time with his friends. He is interested in playing college football but hasn't set his heart on a particular school.

Over all Bobb is just a regular guy who works hard all week and every Saturday rises above the rest to help his team win a football game.

He will never take much credit for his ability but he will always get respect. After all, as Damien Dominguez says.

"He's just a cool guy."

Students learn the world of high finance from CHS' successful annual corporation projects

By DAVID BERNHARD

Second and fifth period economic classes held the annual Corporation project last Tuesday and Thursday.

The two classes, both taught by the inspiring Donna Krasnow sold food, such as Calamari, Pizza, Home Fries, Sodas, and Smoothies. But each class had its own twist to attract hungry customers.

The American Express, from fifth period, chose their name because it had a good ring to it. The students made catchy slogans such as: "The American Express, don't eat lunch without it!"

However, no corporation in school history had such an unusual name as second periods Gator's Grill.

That's right, the Gator's Grill actually sold Alligator meat to attract the curious customer.

Contrary to some people's thoughts, Alligator is not an endangered species, as some American Express workers said. The Alligator is raised on a farm in Florida specifically for this purpose.

Gator's Grill pulled one other profit motive maneuver. The idea came from the powerful mind of Damien "Stoner" Dominguez. Gator Cards.

Dominguez's plan was to sell "Gator Cards," much like credit cards, kind of like an American Express card.

By selling Gator Cards for $1 each, student who had one could get 10 percent off on any food item at Gator's Grill, as well as access to the Express Lane offered only to Gator Card holders.

Jesus Cardenas of Gator's Grill got the full experience of the business world.

"It showed us how to work together in a corporation and how to stick through the good and bad times," said Cardenas.

And how important team cooperation is in business. On several occasions, students started to feel the heat of the deadlines and were on the verge of tearing one another's heads off.

Loi Yu, the treasurer of the Gator's Grill credits the profit motive to his classes success.

"Everybody wanted to make money so they worked hard," said Yu.

Students from the American Express were equally pleased with their success.

"It taught me a lot how business is run," said Senior Wood.

As of Friday, Oct. 25, the American Express was unaware of the exact profit totals they earned. However, Gator's Grill's profit was $774.36. They were successful enough to have their share holdings originally of $1 value, rise to a whopping $4.13 per share.

asset to the team," says teammate and friend Chris Cannon.

Bobb, who plays inside linebacker, is part of the core of the Padres defense.

"His defense is wonderful, natural," says CHS Coach John Ables. "You can count on him to be there. He has a nose for a ball."

So far this year Bobb has contributed with 41 tackles, three sacks, and two interceptions. Big stats aren't the only things that make Chris a good player.

His presence on the field not only intimidates the competition, but raises his own team's level of play.

"He's a team player," says Johnston. "The players respect his ability and his intensity."

On offense, Bobb plays tight end. He has contributed with good blocking, and a big play in the Aptos game when he caught a 37 yard TD reception.

"He has made himself into a great offensive player," says Ables.

His work ethic is what his coaches praise the most. They say he is hard-

CHS: 'Students ready for college'

By JEREMY BUCK

Recent high school graduates may think that they have what it takes to enter the real world, but bosses and colleges disagree, according to the recent Harris poll.

The Harris poll showed employers and higher educators ranked recent graduates lower on math, written and verbal skills than the graduates and their parents.

Norma Walsh, an English teacher at CHS finds the article amusing in the way they say that kids aren't ready for college. She says that colleges yell at the high schools and high schools yell at the lower schools about the students knowledge of classes that will be good toward the future.

"It's like a big circle that doesn't end," said Walsh.

"I think that students are more ready than ever for college and the real world."

The Harris pole of 2,446 employers, college and vocational school educators, recent graduates and parents found out that only 12 percent of the employers and 18 percent of higher educators believe that recent graduates

- Learned to write well enough for the real world.

- Only 22 percent of employers and 27 percent of teachers believe that students learned math well.

Students at CHS feel different on the poll.

"I think the poll doesn't accurately reflect the actual abilities of the students", said senior Nathan Chow.

The poll also says that students that are now in high school don't have the education to go out in the real world.

What is an education?

Walsh said, "I think an educational person is someone that doesn't think he knows everything and knows where to go for an answer."

Teachers at CHS think one of the most important thing of knowledge is reading.

"At CHS many students can read fairly well which I think will get them ready for college a little better, especially for the SATs."

Popular CHS dance teacher returns

By MELISSA INGLES

After being gone from CHS for two years in Mexico, Marikay LeValley is back. LeValley teaches computer keyboarding, computer applications, dance 1, and dance workshop.

"I have been teaching here at CHS, since 1972, back when there were real hippies," says LaValley. LeValley left in 1979 to live with her husband in San Francisco. while he got his master's degree. That year, LeValley got pregnant with her first child and stayed home another year to be with her newly born daughter.

In 1981 LeValley came back to CHS, but left again in 1984, where she had her second child. LeValley came back again for three years. In her spare time, LeValley enjoys relaxing, dancing, camping, hiking, and mostly spending time with her family.

"I really don't have that much time to relax with teaching, and having two young children," says LeValley.

In 1989 LeValley left CHS to teach at the Colegio Americana in Puerto Vallarta, which is a private school of 300 kids, K-12.

LeValley, as well as her entire family, lived on the campus.

"My kids loved going to school there, and became bilingual, they made many friends. I myself was surprised at how polite the kids were, they said thank you after every class I taught." LeValley is now back teaching at CHS. "My home is here in Carmel and I'm glad to be back!"

LeValley teaches dance at CHS, and will be putting on a few productions during the year.

"I'm very excited about this year. The kids are especially nice, and I'm very anxious to work with the dance workshop," says LeValley, who has taken many dance and choreography classes all throughout the United States.

The dance workshop class will be dancing in a Shakesphere play put on by Tom Clifford on Dec. 9-11 at CHS in the drama room.

The dance workshop class will also be putting on a performance featuring different types of dance and dance music. The performance will be held at Sunset Center on June 30.

Derek Johnson leads water polo team

By RJ POWELL

The CHS varsity water polo is currently has a record standing at 17-7, and are playing as a team. They just came off a thrashing win over Robert Louis Stevenson on Tuesday, Oct. 22.

The Padres leading scorer is Derek Johnson, who will probably end up being named M.T.A.L. player of the year.

Also contributing a great deal to the team is Robert Allaire a junior second in scoring behind Johnson.

Nate Stiles is the premier goalie holding his own on defense, holding opponents to limited number of goals.

The Padres are standing at a league contending 4-1 record. Their only blemish mark stands at the hands of Live Oak High School.

Live Oak has a large school enrollment at about 2,500 students compared to 650 students.

The Padres still have a shot at winning league if another team could knock off Live Oak.

"We're playing well and all we have to do is keep it up and don't give up when were down. If we practice hard and give it a 110 percent we can take league," said Stiles.

Come cheer the CHS water polo team on a they race for first place.

College Night set for Nov. 7

By PATRICK WHITMARSH

College night is Nov. 7 and 70 colleges, including all the UC and most of the state schools, will be in attendance. During the two hours students and parents can search through the schools and talk to the representatives from the schools.

Career center head Karen Baker said that attendance is usually between five and 60 and not only students and their parents. Anyone from the community who is interested in learning more about college is welcome.

College night is put on by the CHS career center.

"If you know what college you want to go to come and talk to the representatives and check all the information," Baker said. "Most of the representatives are on the admissions boards for the schools and if you make an impression you can help your chances on getting in", said Baker.

The Career Center has been helping students make their future decisions for years and is located in the CHS main office. Among many services the Career Center provides information on colleges and many other careers.

Volunteers run the CHS Career Center, and most of them are the mothers of CHS students or graduates of CHS. "It's great to meet other students and the faculty of CHS, It's a good way to become involved," said Baker.

Padres fall to Palma 17-0; rainy conditions blamed in part for loss

JESUS CARDENAS

It was a cold and gloomy day at Barderson Field last Saturday, and it got even gloomier when the visiting Palma Chieftains headed back for Salinas with a 17-0 win over the host CHS Padre football team.

The Padres came into Saturday's game with a spotless 2-0 record in league and were regarded as one of the teams in the M.T.A.L. that could dethrone Palma from their long rein as league champions, but the terrible rainy conditions made this practically impossible.

The first quarter went by with neither team able to get any kind of offense started due to the playing conditions.

In the middle of the second quarter Palma began the first decent drive of the game and capped it off with a five yard Vernon Lee touchdown run.

After the extra point Palma took a 7-0 lead, and that's the way it stayed as they headed to the locker rooms at halftime.

When the second half began Palma took command of the game and would go on to score on a 13 yard Matt Amarel quarterback keeper and on a Chris Souza field goal for the win.

The Chieftains made it a clean sweep beating the J.V.

14-0 and the freshman 20-6 The freshman lone score came on a John Geisler quarterback run.

The previous week the Padres were beaten by the Mariners of Aptos in a game in which the Padre defense, lead by seniors Chris Bobb and Kelly Starret, held one of the tri-league areas most potent runningbacks to a measly 62 yards on the ground. And if it weren't for a cheeseball play at the end of the game the Padres could have came out with a win.

It was a fourth and long play and everybody in the stands figured the game was over. But as the saying goes "It ain't over till the fat lady sings".

to a Mariner receiver, the ball was tipped by defensive end David Beerman and it somehow landed in the receivers hands and he took off for the end zone with senior free safety Tobin Leslie hot in pursuit. Leslie was able to get a hand on the receiver but wasn't able to make the game saving tackle.

The Padre touchdowns came on a touchdown pass from quarterback Andrew Wilson to tight end Chris Bobb which covered 34 yards and on a spectacular 55 yard punt return by junior Anthony Herro.
